

Lucey Wins Governorship; Proxmire Sails to Victory

71 Per Cent Of Vote For Senator

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democrat William Proxmire dealt Republicans their most crushing senatorial defeat in Wisconsin political history Tuesday, winning re-election to the U.S. Senate with 71 per cent of the vote.

The busy critic of wasteful military spending defeated former basketball coach John Erickson, a political newcomer whom Gov. Warren P. Knowles and other GOP leaders had chosen over a number of party regulars as Proxmire's challenger.

Proxmire, whom Erickson had accused of a "do-nothing attitude" toward Nixon administration programs, called his victory "the clearest kind of mandate to challenge every big expenditure that comes before the Senate."

The answer to inflation, he said, is "to slash federal spending, especially military spending. The people of Wisconsin have shouted their answer loud and clear."

Unofficial Tally
Final tabulations showed Proxmire with 965,998 votes, to 385,423 for Erickson.

Proxmire's victory, in a non-presidential election year, was even more impressive than the 1968 presidential-year re-election of Democratic Sen. Gaylord Nelson. In that race, Nelson had 62 per cent of the vote in beating State Sen. Jerris Leonard, later chosen by the Nixon administration to head the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

It was Proxmire's seventh election bid at the state level. He lost three campaigns for governor until elected in a special election in 1957 to fill the chair vacated by the Death of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis. He was re-elected in 1958 and 1964.

Starr Rejection
Bart Starr, ace quarterback with the National Football League's Green Bay Packers, rejected GOP offers to face Proxmire. The state GOP convention in May turned to Erickson, a University of Wisconsin basketball coach who had been general manager of Milwaukee.

Steiger Retained
Another of the nation's more youthful congressmen, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, won a third term by defeating Democrat Franklin Utech, 40, Oshkosh State University art professor, by a 57,000 vote margin. Steiger, 32, is five months older than Utech.

The Steiger-Utech race in the Sixth District also followed national issues, with Steiger defending and Utech attacking. The Eighth District race was one of three across the nation in which a Catholic priest challenged an incumbent.

Father Cornel rolled up 60,345 votes to Byrnes' 76,912, based on virtually complete unofficial returns. (The Associated Press gave slightly lower figures for each candidate, with a handful of precincts unlisted.)

Neither Byrnes nor Cornell made the challenger's clerical background an issue in the heavily Catholic district. Byrnes, himself a Catholic, refused to comment on "the occupation or vocation of my opponent."

Clerical Garb
Cornell wore his clerical garb while campaigning, but insisted he was not "a priest-candidate." He said he decided to wear his collar to avoid being accused of "trying to hide something."

Byrnes followed the political rule book which says the incumbent ignores the existence of poverty, ignorance and disease. He based his defense on staunch support of Nixon policies, while his price guidelines to curb inflation

It's a Long Road to Madison

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Pat Lucey is the classic example of the late bloomer in Wisconsin politics.

For more than two decades he has nursed and scarcely concealed an ambition and determination to rise, meanwhile serving as faithful planner, minister and strategist in the careers of friends who rose to high public places, some of them junior in age, experience and performance in Democratic party service.

Lucey was involved in all of the strategic advances of his party since it roused itself from its moribund status in 1948. He was an ally of the men who personified its most significant triumphs since it inherited the ruins of the demoralized LaFollette Progressive movement, discredited and finally destroyed in 1946.

He was there as one of the principal movers when the Democrats laid the foundations of their new party at Green Bay in 1948 — the equivalent in state politics of the formation of the infant Republican party by disgruntled Whigs, Free-soilers and Pro-Union Democrats in Ripon nearly a century earlier.

There were years of discouragement after he came to the legislature in 1948, in a period that spawned more promising young politicians than any other legislature in decades.

He made a sacrificial run for congressman in the historically Republican southwest- ern Wisconsin region.

In the 1950s he developed a successful realty business, helped some of his contemporaries to start their careers in politics, and was persuaded to take over the chairmanship of the state party machine in defiance of the maxim that the job was a deadend for the ambitious politician. Gaylord Nelson was abruptly promoted from an obscure state senate seat to the governorship.

A man named William Proxmire, a new migrant to the state, was catapulted into the U.S. Senate. Younger men went to seats in congress or became attorney general and won stepping stones to the governorship, including his good friend John W. Reynolds of Green Bay.

Then Lucey met a young Bostonian who taught him the most valuable lesson of his life. He joined the Wisconsin drive of John Kennedy for the presidency soon after its birthing. He became an insider of the famous Kennedy organization. All the while he was learning the science of politics, the detailed planning, the importance of ample financing, the value of a tight group of dedicated loyalists.

Most of all he learned patience.

In 1964 he won his first important statewide notice with election to the lieutenant governorship. No matter that his minor triumph was traceable to the ebb tide of Republican fortunes in that Goldwater year. He had a forum. He used it, tirelessly, with deliberate planning.

In 1966 he had his chance for the governorship, made a respectable run, but lost. Friends and enemies tend to forget the percentage points, but Lucey did not. He ran well against a popular and skilled Gov. Warren Knowles, basking in his political honeymoon. Lucey remembered the margin. He had won 46 per cent of the vote against Knowles with the handicap of a divided Democratic organization.

The next four years were spent in healing divisions, and building a stronger personal organization, and wooing enemies at some price in personal pride and humiliation, especially in his home district of Madison. In the celebrated words of the late Thomas E. Coleman, the most successful Wisconsin Republican party organization chief of this century, all the little blocks were in place when the 1970 calendar opened.

First 4-Year Term Goes To Democrat

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democrat Patrick J. Lucey, master political strategist and former adviser to the Kennedys, won Wisconsin's first four-year term as governor in Tuesday's election.

Lucey, who engineered the resurgence of the Democratic Party in the state in the late 1950s, carried 40 counties over Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, the veteran picked by the Republicans to carry their standard when popular Gov. Warren P. Knowles decided not to seek a fourth term.

Lucey rolled up a whopping 86,000 vote plurality in Milwaukee County, and his margin out-state was enough to capture the governor's chair. He took the office by more than 120,000 votes.

Unofficial returns, with 3,196 of 3,314 precincts reporting showed these totals:

Lucey	744,414
Olson	609,209
American Party candidate Leo J. McDonald	9,096

Elects das Pair

This was the first time in Wisconsin that the governor and lieutenant governor were elected as a pair. Lucey's running mate and the lieutenant governor-elect is State Sen. Martin Schreiber, who though only 31 is a veteran of eight years in the legislature.

Lucey, a 52-year-old Madison real estate operator had held only one statewide elective office previously, that of lieutenant governor. He won that office in 1964, defeating the same opponent then as he did Tuesday.

Olson's running mate was State Rep. David O. Martin of Neenah.

The Democratic triumph pushed Republican State Treasurer Harold Clemens out of office and replaced him with Charles P. Smith, a 44-year-old production supervisor for a Madison chemical firm. Smith was defeated in the treasurer's race in 1968. Clemens, a former assemblyman, was appointed to the post two years ago.

Two Republicans held their state offices.

Democrats Capture Assembly

Committee Chairmen
Several Assembly committee chairmen were among the 15, vious all-time high of 59, scored Republicans who lost re-election by state Democrats during the bids as Democrats regained control of the lower chamber for the first time since the 1964 of 1932.

The GOP had held a three-seat margin in the Assembly during the last session.

Democrats also picked up strength in the Senate, which 67 of 100 seats, thus assuring has been dominated by the Reg- Gov.-elect Patrick J. Lucey of publicans for years.

Upset Pattern
Only one Wisconsin congressional district upset the pattern of incumbents reclaiming their seats. Economics professor Leslie Aspin won a resounding victory over a veteran Republican incumbent Tuesday in a congressional election battle that had been dominated by the nation's economic situation.

Aspin's unexpected huge defeat of Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., marked the state's first district won

The committee chairmen in-re-election by a narrow margin of 6,507 to 6,387 and his Demo- cratic opponent, Eugene Kauf- telman of West Salem, agricul- man, already has demanded a recount.

Lawrence Johnson of Al- recount. goma, education; and Elmer, Nitschke of Beaver Dam, trans- portation.

Republicans were keenly disappointed over the legislative losses, primarily because the next session will deal with such politically volatile matters as congressional and legislative re- apportionment, and taxation.

The GOP held a 50-47 margin in the Assembly at the end of the 1969 session and a 21-11 advantage in the Senate. There were two vacancies and an independent in the Assembly, and one vacancy in the Senate.

Independent

Losing Incumbents
Beside the committee chairmen who met defeat, other Republicans denied in their re-election bids included Reps. Willis Hutnik of Ladysmith, James Tamms of Milwaukee, Wesley Packard of Lodi, Russell Weisenfeld of Sun Prairie, Ervin Schneeborg of Brown Deer, Carolyn Blanchard Allen of Evansville, George Belling of Beloit, Robert Boche of Star Prairie, John Parkin of Marshfield and Harvey Gee of Wisconsin Rapids.

In addition, incumbent Republican Donald Helgeson of Manitowish County's first district won

GOP Makes Senate Gains

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans increased their strength and President Nixon gained a little ideological leverage in the Senate, but Democrats kept control in Tuesday's election.

Defying off-year election history, Republicans were assured a minimum net gain of three seats in the chamber of Congress that has been Nixon's most implacable foe. The Democratic majority had been 57 to 43.

A most important Republican victor came in Tennessee, where Albert Gore was vanquished, fulfilling a major administration ambition. Vice president Spiro T. Agnew said Gore was the GOP's No. 1 target.

Republicans also won in Connecticut, Maryland, and Ohio while Rep. Richard Roudebush was locked in a tight fight with Democratic incumbent Vance Hartke in Indiana.

Stevenson in Illinois

The GOP suffered losses in Illinois, where Adlai Stevenson III dropped incumbent Sen. Ralph T. Smith, and California where former song and dance man Sen. George Murphy lost to John V. Tunney.

Conservative James Buckley won New York's turbulent three-way contest, scoring a solid ideological gain for the White House in national security and defense matters. Liberal incumbent Charles Goodell, read out of the party by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, ran a poor third behind Democrat Rep. Richard Ottinger.

Buckley has said he will vote with Republicans in organizing the Senate, but Harry F. Byrd Jr., a former Democrat who was re-elected as an independent to a second term, is expected to vote with the Democrats.

Although Republican George Bush lost in Texas, conservative Democrat Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. will replace the liberal Democrat he defeated in the primary, Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Short of Predictions
The Senate result fell short of predictions by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who carried the White House banner in a rock 'em sock 'em law-and-order campaign estimated by some to have cost both parties $65 million nationwide.

But the Republican gain broke a tradition that has seen the party in power lose an average of four Senate seats in every off-year election since 1914.

Agnew, who had predicted a four-to-six-seat gain, said the results would give the President a "working majority" in the chamber that thwarted him twice on Supreme Court nominations, fought him on Vietnam and nearly dented him an anti-missile defense system.

By a working majority, the vice president said in an appearance at Republican campaign headquarters, "I mean people who will vote for the United States and not vote against the interests of the country."

Familiar Face

Among the Senate class of 1970 will be a familiar face—that of Hubert H. Humphrey, Minnesota voters overwhelmingly returned him to the Senate where he served 16 years before becoming vice president in 1965 and Richard Nixon's victim in the 1968 presidential race.

Humphrey's election gives him a platform should he seek to challenge Nixon again in 1972.

At the same time, voters in Massachusetts and Maine kept alive the presidential potential of Edward M. Kennedy and Edmund S. Muskie by returning them to the Senate by large margins.

Gore, the 62-year-old white-thatched orator who was second ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was defeated by three-term

Byrnes Fights Tough Challenge to Retain Seat

Incumbents won new terms in the House of Representatives from voters in three northeastern and northcentral Wisconsin congressional districts Tuesday, but the veteran of longest tenure fought off the toughest challenge.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, won his 14th term in the House of Representatives by a .6 per cent margin over the Rev. Robert Cornell, 51, Democratic priest from the St. Norbert College history faculty.

While the margin is respectable, it is the narrowest the 57-year-old Byrnes has experienced in many of 14 congressional campaigns. He won by 21 in 1968, and collected nearly 80 per cent of the 1966 vote.

Move Toward Atom Power Is Fast One

Nuclear Plants To Provide Most Of Need by 2,000

By HARRY STEINBERG
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Nuclear power, which now supplies enough electricity for more than five million Americans, is expected to become a major source of electric power by the end of this century.

"We anticipate that 30 years from now nuclear power plants will be generating over one-half the nation's total electric power," Atomic Energy Commission Chairman Glenn T. Seaborg said in a recent speech.

Currently, only two per cent of the nation's annual 321.4 million kilowatts, comes from nuclear-powered generators.

There are now 16 such generators operating and they produce over 5.1 million kilowatts annually, according to the AEC.

The future of atomic energy for generating electricity seems bright. The AEC reports that 55 reactors, with a capacity of 44.5 million kilowatts, are now under construction.

Thirty-seven nuclear plants at more, with a capacity of 35.9 million kilowatts are on order. Nine more plants, with an eight million kilowatt capacity, have been announced.

"We developed a whole technology from nothing," says Carl Goldstein a spokesman for the Atomic Industrial Forum, Inc. a nonprofit group of manufacturers and users of atomic energy. It wasn't until 1954 that the AEC—which governs and licenses all atomic energy—first switched its sights from military to industrial exploitation of nuclear energy, he explains.

By 1957 the first semiconductor, nuclear-powered electricity generator became operational. That plant, a 90,000 kilowatt facility at Shippingport, Pa. was built by the Duquesne Power Co.

Ten years later, the first fully commercial nuclear generator plant, built by Consolidated Edison at Buchanan, N.Y., was in operation. That plant has a capacity of 270,000 kilowatts.

Problems Faced The problems facing the continued growth of nuclear energy are cost, construction time and the ability to meet environmental controls.

The AEC reports that a large nuclear-powered station—one with a capacity of one million kilowatts—can cost up to $40 million more than a similar fossil-fueled plant.

Among the reasons for the greater cost of a nuclear-powered plant are the added costs of reactor safeguards and the fact that there is virtually no standardization in the manufacturing process. They have to be built to specification.

Year-Long Review A special year-long period of AEC licensing review means that nuclear plants take longer of the Sierra Club, a conservation group.

However, Dr. James H. Wright, director of environmental Systems Department at Westinghouse Power Systems says that raising the temperature of water may actually help some forms of marine life.

As an example he cites a shellfish agricultural program being run by the Long Island Lighting Co. which is more economical than they are growing shellfish in reactor-warmed water that would normally be too chilly for the shellfish.

Everyone Gets Week's Vacation

BY ART BUCHWALD

WASHINGTON — Political campaigns are a very exhausting business, not only for the candidates who run for office, but also for the voters who have to listen to them speak.

Most political candidates, winners as well as losers, take off a week or two to rest up from their physically grueling experience. And they're probably entitled to it.

But what about the person who has been bombarded day and night for the past two months with political commercials, newspaper advertisements, speeches, charges, countercharges, fund appeals, rallies, rhetoric, hyperbole, slogans and dirty pool? No one thinks of him after the election. He is just supposed to pick up where he left off as if nothing happened.

Well, I'm happy to announce that for the first time in an election year the voter's welfare is being taken into consideration by somebody.

By the powers vested in me as an American citizen, I am giving all those exposed to the 1970 political campaign a week's vacation.

During that week, no one has to read any political story, watch any elected official or loser on television or discuss with anyone the great political issues that are tearing at the very fabric of our society.

This means that you do not have to watch President Nixon, Vice President Agnew, Democratic Chairman Lawrence O'Brien, Sen. William Fulbright or Hubert Humphrey on television for seven days. You can still watch Martha Mitchell if you want to, because most doctors believe that five minutes of seeing Mrs. Mitchell on television is worth a week of sun in the Virgin Islands.

You do not have to read any of the political pundits who will explain what happened on election day, nor will you have to study the in-depth analyses by the pollsters as to why the Jewish people voted the way they did in New York, the Italians in Chicago, the Mexicans in Los Angeles, the blacks in Birmingham, Ala., and the WASPS in Grosse Pointe, Mich.

You can forget about the cover stories in Time, Newsweek and U.S. News and World Report, and you can tune out any radio program that starts "A recount was demanded in . . ."

For one week you can fish, swim, ski, play golf, read a good fiction book, listen to music and go see an X-rated movie and forget anything that was said during the past two months in the political campaigns. You might as well because the politicians elected to public office are certainly going to forget it as soon as they come back from their vacations.

During the next seven days, take your children to a ball game, your wife to a restaurant, your girlfriend away for a weekend. If you're a woman, bake a cake, go to a museum, buy a pair of boots and go away with your boyfriend for a weekend.

You, as a voter, a consumer, a TV watcher, a newspaper reader, have earned this vacation as much as anyone who ran for office. Enjoy your seven-day furlough from politics. Believe me, if I had the power I'd give you more.

Nuclear Reaction Caused By Buildup of Plutonium

LONDON (AP) — A buildup of plutonium residue began an unplanned nuclear reaction and rang the safety alarm at Britain's Windscale Nuclear Power Plant, an inquiry has revealed.

The radiation alarm rang Aug. 24 in a laboratory separate from the main plant in Cumberland, on the northwest coast of England. The laboratory, where plutonium is recovered from atomic wastes, has been closed since the alarm pending modifications.

Main Plant Continues The main Windscale plant, which produces nuclear material for bombs and generators, has remained in operation.

The Atomic Energy Authority said another full inquiry was underway to determine exactly how the unexpected plutonium accumulation occurred.

The radiation leak caused no active contamination, the statement said, and two men working in the secondary plant were unharmed. The plant itself was undamaged and no radioactive materials were released from it.

Democrats Big Winners In Governorship Races

WASHINGTON (AP) — In simple numbers, and in states where state house control adds clout for the 1972 presidential drive, it was Democrats nearly all the way Tuesday.

They ousted at least 12 Republicans from governorships, while giving up only two. The turn in Democratic fortunes, after a steady decline in state house occupancy in the 60s, was the most dramatic development in the election.

Republicans went into the voting with a 32-18 edge. The governorships of California and New York, the biggest trophies in the bag, eluded the Democrats. But they scored important victories in the other big states: Ohio, Florida, Minnesota, Pennsylvania and Wisconsin, all previously in Republican hands and all the recipients of campaign visits by President Nixon, Vice President Spiro T. Agnew—or both.

Expected Losses
Republicans unseated Democrats only in Connecticut and Tennessee. Both were expected. It was difficult to explain the Democratic success only in terms of the national campaign themes of the two parties. Local issues and personalities often overrode the Republican law and order thrust as well as the economic emphasis of the Democrats.

In early morning, with a few governorships still undecided, the results of Tuesday's elections looked like this:

Democrats: Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin.

Democrats: Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Hawaii, Idaho, Kansas, Maryland, Minnesota, Nebraska, Nevada, New Mexico, Ohio, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania, South Carolina, South Dakota, Texas, Wisconsin.

Republican Victories
Republicans: Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Iowa, Massachusetts, New Hampshire, New York, Oregon, Tennessee, Vermont and Wyoming.

The outcome of the Michigan election had been clouded by vote-count problems in Detroit. Rhode Island's election was so close that 7,500 absentee ballots had to be counted. Maine had a tight race and the count in Alaska was slow.

"Tonight, we find the Democratic party a majority party in America," said Lawrence F. O'Brien, the Democratic national chairman. The gain in governorships, he said, will give Democrats "equity in redistricting" congressional districts in wake of the 1970 census.

Controlling the state house is extremely important in gearing up a presidential campaign. It means power in official appointments—creating party machinery—in raising funds and in prestige.

In 22 States
Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who campaigned in 22 of the 35 states that elected governors, called the election outcome bittersweet. The sweet, he indicated, was what he called the "working majority" the President now has in the Senate.

The bitter, Agnew said, is "seeing so many men I knew well as the governor of Maryland losing in their gubernatorial races."

Herb Klein, the President's director of communications, said in San Clemente, Calif., that "I think we can honestly say we would like to have done better... in the governorships."

Ousted Incumbents
Among those who lost re-election bids were Govs. Winthrop Rockefeller of Arkansas, Claude Kirk Jr., of Florida, Don Samuelson of Idaho, Dewey Bartlett of Oklahoma, Norbert Tiemann of Nebraska and Frank Farrar of South Dakota—all Republicans.

Republican Nelson A. Rockefeller had no difficulty in winning a fourth 4-year term as governor of New York, setting a modern record. Neither did Ronald Reagan of California. Their opponents were former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg, in New York, and former Democratic assembly speaker Jess Unruh in California.

Other Republicans who renewed leases on governors' mansions were Francis Sargent of Massachusetts—a state neither Nixon nor Agnew visited, by request—Walter Pelerson of New Hampshire, Deane Davis of Vermont, Robert Ray of Iowa, John Love of Colorado and Stanley Hathaway of Wyoming.

Robert Docking, Kansas Democratic governor, did what his father couldn't do before him: he was elected to an unprecedented third two-year term in a notably Republican state.

Maryland's Marvin Mandel, a

Democrat named governor by the state legislature to fill Agnew's unexpired term, easily won election. Democrat John Burns of Hawaii also was re-elected.

So was Preston Smith of Texas, another Democrat who had to withstand a Nixon-Agnew campaign onslaught.

Among the new faces in state houses was a familiar one—Alabama's George C. Wallace. The 1968 third party presidential candidate, governor of Alabama from 1963 through 1967, had no Republican opposition. But a black challenger, Dr. John C. Waller, got about 100,000 votes. Wallace's was at least five times that number as he regained his power base.

In Georgia, Democrat Jimmy Carter followed the ineligible Lester Maddox into the governor's chair, taking Maddox along as lieutenant governor. Hal Suit, a former television newscaster who had the help of the Nixon-Agnew team, trailed far behind.

Millionaire Milton Shapp, who missed in his try for the governorship four years ago, led a Democratic landslide in Pennsylvania that carried control of both houses of the General Assembly with it for the first time since 1936. His opponent was Lt. Gov. Raymond Broderick.

Democrat John J. Gilligan, assisted by a state loan fund scandal in the Republican state administration, was a predictable winner in Ohio over state Auditor Roger Cloud who had held public office 34 years.

The Idaho state house went to a Democrat for the first time in more than a quarter century as Cecil D. Andrus, a 39-year-old former state senator, denied reelection to Republican Don W. Samuelson, 57. It was a rematch but a reversal of the 1966 roles for the two.

Campaign Help

In South Carolina, Lt. Gov.

John West said his victory over Democrat-turned-Republican Albert Watson indicated South Carolinians did not want to make a race an issue. Watson, a congressman, had the strong support of Sen. Strom Thurmond and Agnew.

Massachusetts gave Sargent his first full four-year term by rejecting the bid of Democratic Mayor Kevin H. White of Boston. Sargent moved up from lieutenant governor two years ago when Gov. John A. Volpe became secretary of transportation.

In Florida, efforts by the administration for Gov. Kirk came to no avail as Democrat Reubin Askew moved into the governorship by at least a 200,000-vote margin.

Administration efforts in behalf of a gubernatorial candidate paid off in Tennessee, where Memphis Dentist Winfield Dunn became the first Republican elected to that post since 1920. The poor business fortunes of his opponent, John J. Hooker Jr., played a large part in the election.

Democrats Short of Expected House Gains

By EDMOND LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats retained control of the House of Representatives in Tuesday's election, but Republicans checked them far short of the gains normally scored by the opposition party in a non-presidential year.

With 6 races still to be fully counted, Democrats had won 232 seats—35 more than the minimum needed to organize the House—and Republicans 177. Democrats had gained a net of nine seats formerly held by Republicans and were likely to pick up a few more.

Since 1900 the average gain for the out of the White House party at the midpoint of a President's first term has been about 35 seats.

Personal Considerations
Despite the strenuous Republican campaign to blame campus and street violence on what they termed permissiveness on the part of highly placed Democrats, and the Democrats counter efforts to pin continued inflation and high unemployment on Republican economic policies, voters seemed moved mainly by local and personal considerations in choosing House members.

President Nixon's and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's political forays, focused as they were on the Senate and governorships, had little noticeable day's effect on the House races.

In Ohio, Democrat John F. Seiberling, who complained he was unfairly identified with campus radicals, upset Rep. William H. Ayres, the Republican incumbent with 20 years' seniority. Yet in Colorado, Dist. Atty. James D. Mike McKeever became the first Republican congressman elected from Denver in 36 years, defeating Democratic peace candidate Craig Barnes.

Another Democratic peace candidate, Rep. Allard K. Lowenstein, lost in New York to Republican Norman F. Lent. Lowenstein, who gained a strong following among the young when he led the dump-Lyndon Johnson campaign three years ago, lost much of his previous strength when his Long Island district was reorganized.

In Minneapolis, Democratic Rep. Donald M. Fraser, a leader of House liberals, easily stood a Republican assault mounted mainly on the law and order issue—in a city that elected a police officer mayor last year.

Liberal Democrat
The Seattle, Wash., area, hard hit by the decline in the aerospace industry, returned its two incumbent congressmen with comfortable majorities. One, Thomas Pelly, is a conservative Republican; the other, Brock Adams, a liberal Democrat.

In the Oregon timber country, also hard hit economically, GOP Rep. John Dellenback was re-elected.

While the partisan makeup of the House didn't change much, the new body will not look exactly like its predecessor. Young challengers displaced a number of older members, in were on the Senate and governorships, had little noticeable day's effect on the House races.

Returns, still not final, pointed to the election of three more blacks than were in the present Congress. But Harlem's Adam Clayton Powell, who lost in the Democratic primary, will be missing.

Other unsettled contests indicated that the number of women in the House will increase from 10 to 12.

3 Successes in Campaign of Nixon, Agnew

WASHINGTON (AP) — The campaign travels of President Nixon and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew stacked up rather poorly against election results Tuesday night, but they had three sparkling successes.

The high points of election success measured against the President's unprecedented participation in an off-year election came in Tennessee and Connecticut where Republican candidates took both governorships and senate seats, and in New York where conservative James L. Buckley, the administration's choice, was elected to the Senate.

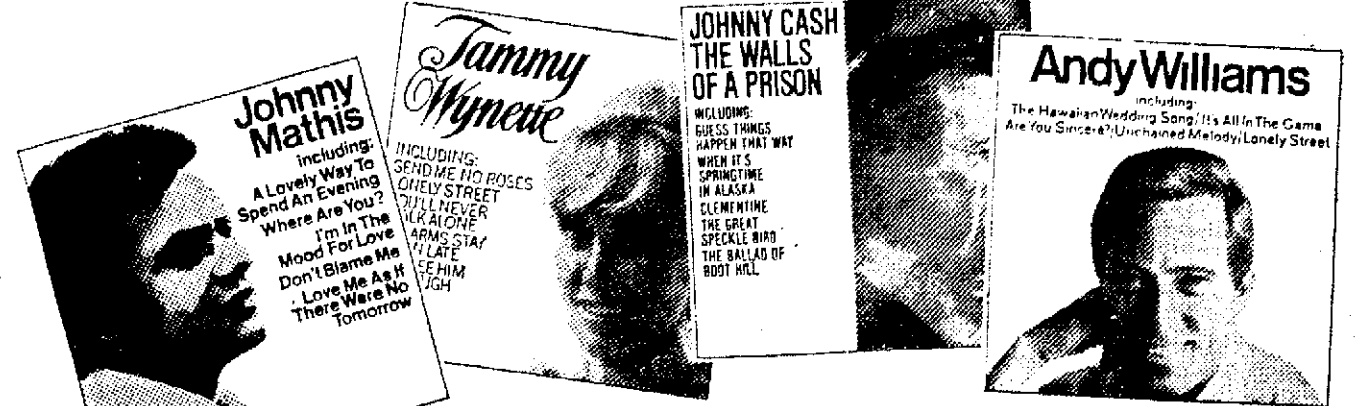

Vice President Agnew, who in six weeks of travel spearheaded the administration's campaign efforts, visited all three states, and was the first to repudiate Sen. Charles Goodell, the Republican seeking re-election. But in almost complete returns from Tuesday's voting, Republicans had won only ten top-ticket contests in the 37 states visited by either the President or vice president or both. Democrats had won 25 of the Senate or gubernatorial races in these states decided by mid-night.

Knowles Cites Efforts To Cut Car Pollution

MADISON — Gov. Warren P. Knowles reported Monday that Wisconsin is making special efforts to reduce pollution that might be caused by state-owned vehicles.

At his operational cabinet meeting, Knowles told department heads that he had written to President Nixon, reporting Wisconsin's compliance with presidential guidelines for use of unleaded gas.

The governor cited plans to write bids for state cars to be purchased in 1971 to include only those models that can accommodate unleaded gasoline. About one-half of the state-owned vehicles are traded each year, and Knowles said all state vehicles would be using unleaded gasoline by 1972.

In the interim, state cars have been equipped with emission control devices that are to be kept well tuned.

The Department of Transportation reported at the meeting that it is establishing a testing center in Madison where all state vehicles will be taken for periodic checks for efficiency of their emission control devices.

Knowles issued an order last February to end polluting practices by state agencies. The officials to cooperate in the switch to non-leaded fuel.

ing operations by the state, it was estimated, will be about $2.9 million.

The governor told the cabinet he also will encourage local officials to cooperate in the switch to non-leaded fuel.

Petition Asks Arrangement To Pay Debts

Religious Order Files Request Under Bankruptcy Chapter

Citing unfortunate investments and present economic conditions, a Milwaukee-based Roman Catholic religious order, the Society of the Divine Savior, Tuesday filed a petition for arrangement to pay creditors under Chapter XI of the Bankruptcy Act in U.S. District Court.

The move, which is "highly unusual for a religious order," according to a U.S. District Court bankruptcy referee, places the assets and financial operation of the Society under the jurisdiction of the court.

The petition will call together creditors of the Society, asking them for approval of a plan to pay off Society debts over an extended period of time.

The society lists assets of $16,910,169. This includes $6,828,472 in land, buildings and equipment, $1,126,250 in receivables, and a $7,818,212 investment in a Washington, D.C. real estate firm. The real estate firm, however, is also involved in a similar Chapter X Bankruptcy Act reorganization action, which, if it fails, would reduce the Society's assets by the amount of its investment.

Liabilities of $8,603,500, including $1,656,758 in notes payable, $3,618,000 in bonds and debentures payable, and $3,043,100 in monies due to contractual obligations, are listed.

Unless the real estate investment is listed as a loss, the society therefore has equity of $3,306,668.

Operated by the Salvatorian Fathers, the Society has a

Grand Chute Serves Summons on Operator Of Paradise Club

The Town of Grand Chute has served a summons on Richard A. Hassell, operator of the Paradise Club, 421 W. Wisconsin Ave., to appear at 6:30 p.m., Nov. 12, to show cause as to why his Class B beer and liquor license should not be revoked.

The summons is in response to a complaint filed by Town Constable John Arft claiming that Hassell "has maintained a disorderly, indecent and improper house" at the Paradise Club.

Police have been called to the premises four times during the past two months on complaints of underage drinking and unlicensed bartenders.

Salvatorian Center in New Holstein.

The Society of the Divine Savior refers to the American Province of the International Society of the Divine Savior. The American Province is headquartered in Milwaukee and is made up of 149 priests, 103 brothers and seminarians involved in educational and pastoral apostolates in 19 states.

The Rev. Edward DeBruin, director of the Society, said, "The Society, upon legal advice, takes this action in the best interest of all parties concerned. It is seen by the Society as the only way to protect the interest of all the various creditors of the Society and to ensure equitable treatment for all parties involved."

DeBruin said the action "does not in any way jeopardize the continued existence of the Salvatorians as a religious group of men in the Catholic Church. The life and work of the Salvatorians throughout the United States will not be substantially changed by this action, and hopefully the ordinary activity of the Society will continue."

The Society recently closed and is attempting to sell Mount St. Paul College in Waukesha.

Landslide

Froehlich Stunned at Democrats' Assembly Takeover

BY DON CASTONIA

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A stunned Harold Froehlich viewed the wreckage of the former Republican-controlled State Assembly this morning in almost the same light as the football coach who wants to see the films before analyzing his team's defeat.

"I really don't have an answer," the Republican speaker of the Assembly for the last four years said.

With the Democrats apparently assured of 67 seats in the Assembly their largest margin ever — and the governorship, Froehlich said, "It can only be termed a landslide."

With the proportions of the Jack Olson-David Martin defeat, Froehlich said, "There is

Show of Strength

Warren, in winning re-election as state attorney general, provided the only show of statewide Republican strength. But even he had a stiff challenge from Thomas Jacobson, relatively unknown attorney.

Froehlich was less certain about his own future in the Assembly. As outgoing speaker, it might be assumed that he would automatically take over as minority leader.

The Appleton lawmaker, sometimes known as Mr. Conservative in the Assembly, was less certain. "I can't say if I am still in a leadership position," he said. "We lost substantially enough that I would have to know who lost to determine if there will be leadership changes in the Assembly GOP."

It was apparent that a number of conservative Republicans had been defeated. Whether the conservative element, led by Froehlich, still maintains control of the party probably will not be known for another two weeks.

Decide at Caucus

The leadership caucus of the GOP is scheduled for Nov. 18 in Madison. The party's Assembly leadership posts will be decided then.

Froehlich said it was difficult to find the cause of voter defection from the GOP, but he admitted that economic conditions probably were the manor factor. "There is no question the people voted their pocketbook," he said.

"I think this was an election where the people were unsettled and concerned about the economy. They voted against the ins who had not been able to calm the unrest and who had raised their taxes substantially, and they voted for the outs who said there would be no new sales taxes, no raises in property taxes and who promised to raise all the taxes from the corporations and the rich."

Froehlich said there was no doubt in his mind that unemployment and reduced working hours were major factors.

Program Backfired

At the same time, he felt the Republican's law and order program may have backfired. "The Democrats took as strong a stand on law and order at the end of the campaign as we did and put the blame on us for the unrest."

He was uncertain as to how smooth sailing the Lucey-Schreiber programs would have through the legislature. "With the amount of control the Democrats have, Lucey's programs should pass handily. It will be interesting to see how many Democrats vote for the taxes to support those programs."

He said it was too early to attempt to predict how the Senate will react. The Republicans maintain a comfortable margin in the upper house.

Froehlich said separate control of the two houses would "keep both parties honest" on the potentially hot issue of reapportionment.

While there is an interim committee on reapportionment, Froehlich said separate bills probably would come out of the Senate and Assembly with a compromise solution.

"It will be interesting to see how this session develops," Froehlich commented. "We will have to start to rebuild the Republican party. After yesterday there is nowhere to go but up."

Close Win Is Gratifying For Byrnes

Though his victory margin was the narrowest in his career, Rep. John W. Byrnes said today he is gratified by his re-election Tuesday, "particularly in view of the Democratic trend in the state."

The Catholic priest who gave him his toughest race said he was disappointed at losing, though somewhat consoled by the strength of his showing.

Byrnes, 57-year-old Green Bay Republican, won a 14th term in the House of Representatives over a stiff challenge from the Rev. Robert Cornell. The Democrats

son, 6,101 to 4,522, but suffered a later setback when statewide returns showed the Democrats had gained control of the Assembly, meaning Froehlich soon will lose his speakership. (Post-Crescent Photo)

Outagamie Incumbents All Win

Outagamie County voters have returned all three incumbent state representatives to the Assembly.

The results were not unexpected, but Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich had to turn back one of the strongest challenges in his career to win his fourth term in the First District.

Republican Ervin "Butch" Conradt and Democrat William Rogers easily turned back challenges in the Third and Second Districts, respectively.

Froehlich's unofficial margin over Appleton Ald. Glenn Thompson was only 1,579 votes — 6,101 to 4,522. This was far short of his 6,400 vote victory margin of two years ago, but this time he was bucking a Democratic trend and a much stronger opponent.

Rogers won his fifth term with a display of power in turning back fellow Kaukauna Ald. Russel Dix, 8,045 to 2,485.

Conradt, in winning his fourth term, won by almost a 2-1 margin over political newcomer John Bowers.

Thompson, a six-year veteran of the Appleton Council, carried three precincts in the city — the 11th and 13th wards and the first precinct of the 9th ward.

Conradt

The 13th is Thompson's home ward and he won it 734 to 561.

Froehlich's biggest margins came in the 7th and 14th wards. In the remaining precincts, his margins were steady but not spectacular.

Before the election, Thompson, admitting he faced an uphill battle, had promised that if he lost he would make another try in 1972.

Rogers piled up insurmountable margins in his home city of Kaukauna and in Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks to make the race a runaway.

Dix carried three precincts — one in the City of Seymour and in the towns of Seymour and Osborn — but his margins were small.

Large Margins

Rogers' margin in Kaukauna was 2,810 to 939; in Kimberly, 1,350 to 250, and in Little Chute, 1,214 to 248.

Two years ago Rogers defeated Richard Helf by a 2-1 margin in a slightly heavier voter turnout. Helf carried the same three precincts that year but by bigger margins than did Dix. He also ran closer in the cities.

Conradt carried his mixed rural urban district by a just slightly less ratio than he did in 1968, but it again was a much smaller turnout. His total was 7,495 to 3,842 for Bowers.

In 1968 Conradt defeated Craig Smith 19,159 to 4,250. Bowers carried only one of the 23 precincts in the district, the Town of Deer Creek.

No Clear Outagamie Trends

Democrats Make Strong County Showing

BY ARLEN BOARDMAN

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

There were no clear trends in the Outagamie County voting Tuesday except possibly the relatively strong showing by certain Democratic incumbents and contenders. The three Fox Cities villages of Little Chute, Kimberly and Combined Locks and Kaukauna were stronger than usual in Democratic vote.

The voter turnout was not much higher than it was in the last off-year election in 1966, and candidates of the same political parties for the most part won their races.

A look at the gubernatorial vote of Appleton and Outagamie residents, according to Peter Nelson, executive committee man for the GOP county party, shows that voting patterns did not change significantly.

County voters favored the Republican candidate by under 53 per cent in 1966, under 54 per cent in 1968 and about 52 per cent in 1970. At the same time electors in Appleton voted for GOP gubernatorial candidates by margins of about 62 per cent in 1968 and about 61 per cent in 1970.

Lawrence Longley, chairman of the county Democratic party, disagreed. He said he was elated with the Democratic showing in the county and predicted the resurgence of the Democrats in the county and the state.

Democratic Resurgence

"Wisconsin appears to be moving into a resurgence of the Democratic Party," he said, noting the victory of Patrick Lucey, U.S. Sen. William Proxmire and other party members.

He said he was particularly excited about the strong showing of Appleton Ald. Glen Thompson (13th) against Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich (6,101 to 4,522) and the strong victories of Sheriff Calvin Spice (over 2 to 1) and State Rep. William Rogers, (over 3 to 1) of the 2nd Dist.

"Outagamie is no longer a safe Republican bastion," he said, predicting the election signified a "major shift to a meaningful two-party competition for the future."

Nelson said he was obviously unhappy with the governor's race, but noted that "we had the state house for six years, and there's a voter tendency after a certain length of time to change horses; whether it's right or wrong is immaterial."

Nelson said the county vote couldn't be considered a partyline vote because of the strong showing of certain Republicans, as well as Democrats.

Nelson also discounted any major effect on the Fox Valley gubernatorial vote because of State Rep. David Martin, R-Neenah, being on the ballot. "I doubt very many voted for Martin; if they voted Republican, it was for Jack Olson," he said.

Part of Joint Ticket

He compared the lieutenant governor post to vice president because it is now part of a joint gubernatorial ticket.

Nelson and Longley's opinion varied on reasons for the county vote outcome.

Longley generally felt the strength of the candidates and issues raised were major factors. He pointed particularly to Thompson: "I think that Glenn Thompson probably put on one of the most amazing performances in Democratic politics." He predicted the vote, which gave Froehlich a much smaller majority than he won two years ago, would make the Appleton Republican seek the pulse of his constituency more in the next two years.

Pointing to reports that the Democrats won control of the assembly, he said it was the county Democrats' goal to get Froehlich out of the speaker post, which he must relinquish since his party lost control.

He also noted the strong race the Rev. Robert Cornell gave Eighth Dist. U. S. Rep. John Byrnes, a veteran in congress.

Strongest Showing

He said this was the Democrats' strongest showing in recent decades and said it would force Republicans in office to come up with strong programs if they wish to stay in office.

Longley said he didn't think law and order was a factor in Outagamie but "as a whole, yes, it was" throughout the nation. Republicans stressed the politics of law and order and security while the Democrats stressed politics of inflation and the pocketbook.

Unemployment and local issues also were factors, he said.

Nelson attributed the outcome to "a combination of things." He said that voting patterns were generally the same except for the stronger Democratic vote in the three Fox Cities villages and Kaukauna.

State Rep. William Rogers, D-Kaukauna, defeated his opponent, Russel Dix, an alderman, 2,810 to 939, in the city's five wards. He also held a 1,350 to 250 edge in Kimberly, 1,214 to 248 in Little Chute and 534 to 73 in Combined Locks.

Patrick Lucey, Democrat for governor, won by a more than 2-1 margin in Combined Locks, Kimberly and Little Chute and over 3-1 in the Town of Vanden Broek.

Sheriff Calvin Spice, also a Democrat, won handily in the same area, including a 303-51 edge in Vanden Broek, 550-62 in Combined Locks, 1,453 to 216 in Kimberly and 1,298 to 192 in Little Chute.

Outagamie County generally followed the state trend in its vote on constitutional offices.

State Treasurer Harold Clemens had the narrowest margin while Secretary of State Robert C. Zimmerman had the biggest margin.

Clemens received 16,223 votes in the county to 13,642 for Democrat Charles P. Smith. Clemens had a 3,500 vote margin in Appleton but Smith carried the remainder of the county as a result of strong support in the Kaukauna-Kimberly-Little Chute area. A Republican Party-Candidate George Hunt received 251 votes.

Zimmerman easily outdistanced his "double N" opponent, 22,104 to 9,591. American Party Candidate George Reed received 467 votes.

In the race for Attorney General, Robert Warren got 20,209 Outagamie County votes to 11,561 for Democrat Thomas Jacobson. John Couture, American Party, received only 180 votes.

In the governor and senate races, minor party candidates received only a scattering of votes.

For governor, Leo McDonald, American Party, received 233 votes; Georgia Cozzini, Socialist Labor, 20; Samuel Marx for sheriff, 23,028.

Democrat Ousts Incumbent Gower In Brown County

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Democratic challenger Donald R. Zuidmulder, carried 49 of 57 precincts on his way to a smashing victory over Republican incumbent John W. Gower, in the Brown County district attorney's race.

Democrat Ronald DeLain, emerged victorious over Republican Mrs. Vilma Polzak, and American Party candidate Donald C. Dantoin in a three-way race for county clerk.

DeLain won by 4,760 votes.

In other county contests, Clerk of Circuit Courts Donald Holloway, Treasurer Mabel N. Phome, Registrar of Deeds Harold P. Loch, all Republicans and coroner Timothy Blaney, a Democrat, all beat back opposition to win re-election.

Unopposed Democratic Sheriff Norbert Froehlich polled 34,007 votes. He was the leading vote-getter in Brown County.

An estimated 45,800 county voters went to the polls, compared to 56,000 in the 1968 presidential election and 38,000 in 1966.

Election Parties

You Could Celebrate or You Could Cry

BY BILL KNUTSON

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An election party is a cry of joy and a moan of despair.

It is handshakes and condolences. It is talk of better things to come and of memories.

An election party is young people sipping Coke and discussing liberals and conservatives and Cambodia and Kent.

It is older people drinking Adler Brau and telling dirty jokes and dealing cards.

What happens at an election party usually depends on who's getting the most or the least votes.

Usually. But not always.

There was an election party Tuesday night at Lawrence University's Memorial Union. It was one of those rare election parties where not everyone in attendance was either overjoyed or grief stricken.

"Cornell's Winning!"

A dollar got you a spot on a sofa or square footage on the floor in front of six television sets tuned to the three networks. The dollar got you doughnuts, sweet rolls and pop and a chance at predicting winners in 30 national races. The payoff was whatever was left over after paying for the pop, doughnuts, sweet rolls and tickets.

A girl in the Union knitted. A girl and a guy took off their shoes and stockings. A girl unfolded her lawn chair. Someone with a beard and wearing a black, western-style hat and side zipper boot leaped to his feet and yelled, "Yahoo. Cornell's winning!"

There was an uneasy rumble when a television newscaster announced that James Buckley, brother of conservative columnist William F. Buckley, had a slight edge in New York senatorial voting.

"We're not so much Democrat or Republican," John Yunker, a junior economics major who organized the party, said of his fellow Lawrence students. "We're more issue oriented. With us it's more a matter of liberal or conservative."

The Outagamie County Democratic party had no official gathering place Tuesday night. There were two ways of looking at it, said Lawrence

Ellis Wins Campaign for Assembly Post

NEENAH-MENASHA — It was a good day for Republicans in Winnebago County, despite the slump by the GOP in other areas on the state and nation. In the Third Assembly Dis- trict, Michael G. Ellis, a 29-year- old Neenah alderman seeking his first elective state office, soundly defeated political new- comer Kenneth Walstrom, pas- tor of St. Timothy Evangelical Lutheran Church in Menasha. The totals were 7,305 to 4,517. Walstrom came closest to vic- tory in Menasha, where he garnered 2,086 votes to Ellis' 2,145. In the Second Assembly Dis- trict, which includes the Town of Menasha and 14 other town- ships, Omro, the Village of Winneconne and four wards in the city of Oshkosh, incumbent Gordon Bradley, of rural Osh- kosh, defeated Democratic chal- lenger Harry Lopas, of the Town of Menasha, by an 8,227 to 5,369 vote margin. Lopas won in the Town of Menasha: 1,121 to 976, and he did well in the Oshkosh wards, where he gathered 1,830 votes to 1,971 for Bradley. But he lost in the towns, 5,551 to 3,160. In the First Assembly District in the City of Oshkosh, Republi- can John Guiles won an easy victory over James Manske. Both were political newcomers.

Winnebago Turns Out Incumbent Coroner

OSHKOSH — There were no surprises in races for county offices. Republican incumbents were returned to their jobs. The one exception was Art C. Miller, county coroner for the last eight years. Miller was defeated, 5,532 to 4,999, in the Republican primary by Duane Moore, and Moore ran over him again yesterday, 21,294 to 6,905. Miller was running as an Inde- pendent. In the other four contested spots, Republicans got 60 per cent or better of the votes. Dorothy Propp, Republican county clerk since 1962, won approval from 65 per cent of the voters, beating Richard R. Spanbauer Jr. 21,626 to 14,009. Viola Firmsahl, register of deeds, beat Democrat Priscilla M. Leith, 21,230 to 13,691, and will keep her job. Their contest was very low-keyed. The first listing of campaign expenses showed Leith spending $23 and Firmsahl $120. This was the pattern for all county races. County Treasurer Frank Luedeke won his sixth term handily, beating Democratic challenger Daniel Carrick, 22,000 to 13,086. Carrick, 23, was the youngest person seeking office in the county. William E. Osborne, Republi- can clerk of circuit court, beat Democrat Patricia P. Swartz- berg, 21,768 to 12,973. Osborne was pressed a bit more than other incumbents. His handling of relief and support payments was made an issue. Sheriff Marvin R. Peppler and District Attorney William Car- ver, both Republicans, were unopposed. Peppler got 25,742 votes and Carver 24,470. Carver beat incumbent Thomas Pink in the September Republican pri- mary.

NEENAH — "For all of this we say 'thank you, Mr. S. F. Shattuck,'" Supt. Donald Scott said during the brief ceremony Tuesday night in which Neenah High School was officially re- named the S. F. Adams Invites Public to Council MENASHA — Mayor James Adams will request a suspension of council rules tonight to allow for public discussion of his recent and controversial report on tax relief for the elderly and city fire protection costs. The session, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be open to the public. The report on fire protection was issued by the mayor last month. It showed personnel costs in Menasha were higher than similar costs in the Village of Menomonee Falls and Wausau. "We are gathered here to recognize education through the celebration of American Educa- tion Week, and to pay tribute to Neenah's Number One citizen, S. F. Shattuck," Scott said. He has dedicated his life to serve mankind and particularly youth, Scott said. Shattuck and his wife received standing ovations when they were introduced in the high school auditorium. "All I can say is thank you," Shattuck replied.

Steinhilber Captures State Senate Seat

OSHKOSH — The conserva- tive won over the liberal in the 19th district state senate race in Winnebago County. Jack D. Steinhilber, a two-term Republican veteran of the First Assembly District in Osh- kosh, bested Democratic op- ponent John T. Allen by a 20,404 to 15,524 vote total in Tuesday's election.

Menasha Edge Allen won only in Menasha, where he took 2,235 votes to only 1,802 for Steinhilber.

It was the second time in a row that Allen had tried and failed to get elected to a state legislative post from Winnebago County. But he was not all cynicism at the quiet Democrati- c Party headquarters in Osh- kosh Tuesday night.

"We're happy with the show- ing state-wide," he said, and felt that even in Winnebago County, Democrats had shown unlimited control over the polit- ical situation in Winnebago County anymore."

GOP Victors But Steinhilber and all other Republicans running for state office in the county won Tues- day.

"I think the Democrats are on the way up," Allen repeated. He said local participation and or- ganization was better than it's ever been locally in an off-year election.

Steinhilber saw the vote for him as a "vote of confidence in

Grand Chute Flooding Drainage District Eyed

A personal appeal from town officials for a clean-up of drainage ditches and the possibility of joining a drainage district were the major hopes offered to Town of Grand Chute residents in the Capitol Court area who are currently battling flooded basements, cabbage fields and roads.

The constant rains of the past several days have increased the amount of surface water that normally collects in the low-land district, and because of plugged drainage ditches, the water has covered Capitol Court and area farmlands.

"The town has no power on that private land," town attorney Roger Clark pointed out to residents who appeared at the regular town board meeting Tuesday night. "We have to get the people to cooperate."

"The only authority we have is if a stream has been dammed up," Rogers said, pointing out that the water in question is merely surface water seeking its lowest level. Residents had complained that the filling in of land by Peter Penterman, 602 Mayflower Drive, had diverted the water and flooded the road and basements.

Request Help

"If the town could assist us by going to the people northeast of us and requesting them to help on this," the problem might be solved, according to attorney Angus MacIntyre, speaking for Penterman. "We tried this three years ago and got nowhere."

Residents agreed that if drainage ditches on three properties to the northeast were cleaned out, the water more easily could be drained out through the existing culverts.

Town Chairman Ira Livingston said. The problem will be district be set up, the area mapped, and federal or state support enlisted to permanently solve the water problem. "If you have a drainage district, you have some authority to keep the ditches clean," he said.

Livingston and board members agreed to go and talk to the owners of the overgrown

Byrnes Is Satisfied With Close Victory

ocratic candidate is a St. Norbert College priest and professor.

Byrnes won with 56 per cent of the vote, collecting 76,912 votes to Cornell's 60,345, while Democrats were felling Republicans from the top to the bottom of the ticket elsewhere in the state.

Praises Workers

This morning Byrnes paid tribute to those who worked for his victory and to the voters. He said, "I am gratified with the margin of my victory, particularly in view of the Democratic trend in the state. It is a tribute to the hard work of hundreds of people who worked so hard in my behalf I am deeply grateful to them and to the people who supported me so loyally with their votes."

"I shall try my best to live up to the trust they have placed in me."

Father Cornell said this morning, "I am deeply grateful to the many people who expended so much time and effort in my behalf."

"During the campaign I met many wonderful people who, I'm sure, share in my disappointment."

He added there was some consolation in receiving the highest vote total of any of Byrnes' opponents.

When asked what his political future is, and whether he will run for congress in 1972, the priest laughed and said, "only time will tell."

Lowest Margin

Byrnes carried all seven counties of the Northeastern Wisconsin district including Outagamie, but his 56 per cent, 16,567-vote margin was the narrowest since his election to his first term in 1944.

Over the years, his victory margins over Democrats have ranged from a 1952 high of 73 per cent and 73,203 votes to a 1948 edge of 57 per cent and 17,418 votes.

A lawmaker of national stature as ranking Republican on the House Ways and Means Committee, Byrnes is of high importance to the Nixon administration and his defeat would have been an upset to attract nation-wide attention.

Ex-New London Man Found Dead

WAUKESHA — The Elm Grove and West Allis police departments are investigating the death of a former New London man, Thomas R. Zaug, 24, Milwaukee, whose badly decomposed body was found Tuesday near Elm Grove.

He was the brother of Allen R. Zaug, 17 Pleasantview Court, and Jerry L. Zaug, 1723 W. Highland Ave., both of Appleton.

The body was discovered near a restaurant in Elm Grove by an 8-year-old boy. Waukesha County coroner James E. Welch pronounced him dead Tuesday afternoon.

The cause of death was attributed to "multiple fractures and bruises" after an autopsy was conducted at 9 30 p. m. Tuesday.

The autopsy revealed Zaug had been dead from four to six weeks.

A billfold containing his identification and money was found on the body, according to the coroner's office.

Zaug was reported missing Sept. 18 when he reportedly fell from the second story porch of a girl friend's home in West Allis. He disappeared when the girl ran inside to call police.

A newspaper ad seeking information on Zaug said he was an epileptic.

A Milwaukee detective agency seeking Zaug has contacted the Elm Grove Police and volunteered information in the case.

Zaug, a New London native, was a graduate of New London High School and the University of Wisconsin.

Survivors are his parents and two brothers.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Friday at the Cline and Hanson Funeral Home, New London, with burial in Floral Hill Cemetery.

Visitation will be after 4 p. m. Thursday until the hour of services on Friday.

In Shooting Case

Waupaca County Conviction Upheld

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Supreme Court has ruled that Daniel J. Martin, a Wisconsin State Reformatory inmate convicted in Waupaca County of aggravated battery may not withdraw his plea of guilty.

The defendant moved to withdraw his plea on Dec. 26, 1968, after being convicted in February of 1968 on the charge of shooting a girl's head, and another that arising out of a shooting incident in Waupaca County, Feb. 2, 1968. Judge Wendell McHenry his attorney was illegally appointed by a municipal justice plea and asked the Supreme Court to review the case.

In an opinion written by Justice Conner T. Hansen, the court affirmed Judge McHenry's decision.

Martin had requested that he be allowed to withdraw his plea on the grounds that his attorney was illegally appointed by a municipal justice lacking authority to appoint counsel and that he did not "freely, voluntarily, intelligently and understandingly enter his plea."

The defendant was originally charged with conduct regardless of human life for the shooting of a woman in a gathering of motorcycle club members at an abandoned Waupaca County cheese factory. Martin was not a member of the club, but participated in the incident that allegedly involved drinking, drugs, shooting, and attempts to have the girl perform unnatural sex acts, according to the brief.

Martin was charged for firing shots, one which missed the target, and another that struck her in the shoulder.

The defendant contended that 1968 Judge Wendell McHenry his attorney was illegally appointed by a municipal justice plea and asked the Supreme Court to review the case.

In an opinion written by Justice Conner T. Hansen, the court affirmed Judge McHenry's decision.

On the basis of testimony by Martin and his attorney in the Waupaca County court, the Supreme Court ruled there is adequate evidence Martin knew the maximum sentence was five years and that his plea was voluntary.

The court agreed that the counsel was improperly appointed, but ruled that Martin was not as a result denied his constitutional right to effective counsel.

Gore Loser in Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — The Nixon administration achieved a major goal of its 1970 election strategy when a conservative congressman dumped Albert Gore, a liberal Democrat, from the U.S. Senate and a Republican was elected governor of Tennessee for the first time in 50 years.

Rep. William E. Brock, 39, whose election to Congress in 1962 launched the GOP on its way to major party status in the state, soundly beat Gore, 62, who had served in Congress since 1938 and was seeking his fourth term in the Senate. Completing the GOP sweep of the state Senate.

statewide offices Tuesday was Winfield Dunn, a 43-year-old dentist who had help from top Democratic state officials in defeating John J. Hooker.

Republicans also retained their four seats in the U.S. House of Representatives but failed to unseat Democrats from their five. Democrats apparently regained control of the state House of Representatives, which they lost two years ago, and held onto their margin in the state Senate.

2nd Nixon Victory

Goodell Loses New York

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — James L. Buckley, a Nixon supporter running under the Conservative party label with broadly implied White House approval, has unseated New York's Republican Sen. Charles E. Goodell, a frequent administration critic.

The 47-year-old businessman's victory in a three-sided race with Goodell and Democrat Richard L. Ottinger featured voting Tuesday in which Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller won re-election as expected, defeating Democrat Arthur J. Goldberg, former Supreme Court justice and U.N. ambassador.

Forging a coalition of conservative-minded voters, Buckley managed a narrow margin over runner-up Ottinger, a Democratic congressman who had competed with Goodell for the state's liberal vote.

Rockefeller

Goodell, who had been denounced by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew as a party turncoat, finished a well-beaten third.

Buckley, an enrolled Republican who was defeated in a 1968

Senate bid, had been known best as the brother of columnist William F. Buckley.

With 95 per cent of the vote reported, Buckley had 2,148,801 votes, or 39 per cent of the total, to Ottinger's 2,088,145, or 36 per cent. Goodell trailed with 1,410,305, or 25 per cent.

Meanwhile, Rockefeller, 62, forged an emphatic victory over Goldberg. Making his first try to elective office, Goldberg, also 62, was thought to be leading early in the campaign, but Rockefeller finished strong.

In winning an unprecedented fourth four-year term, the nation's senior governor posted a plurality approaching 700,000 votes—far better than he had done in any of his previous outings.

Nixon Foe Wins

Tunney Knocks Out Murphy

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Rep. John V. Tunney's defeat of California's Sen. George Murphy adds a newcomer with a touch of Kennedy political style and vigor to the next Senate's Democratic lineup.

Tunney bucked a Republican law and order campaign blitzed by President Nixon in defeating Murphy in Tuesday's election.

Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan won a second four-year term. But his margin over Democrat Jess Unruh fell short of the 900,000 vote edge he received four years ago over the then Democratic incumbent Gov. Edmund "Pat" Brown.

And the GOP may have lost control of the state legislature.

Democrat Tunney, 36, son of former heavyweight boxing champ Gene Tunney, said his victory "represents a rejection of the politics of fear." He acclaimed Murphy, 68, of waging "the dirtiest campaign I've ever seen," including exploitation of last Thursday's rock and egg throwing at Nixon's limousine at San Jose.

Murphy, like Reagan a former Hollywood star, went to bed Tuesday night saying in a voice left hoarse by a 1965 operation for throat cancer: "I can't find it in my heart to concede."

Tunney

Reagan, 59, retired without claiming victory although he held a comfortable lead over Unruh, former speaker of the Assembly who attacked Reagan as the "front man" for special interests such as oilmen and insurance firms.

Tunney, who campaigned against Nixon's economic policies and the war in Vietnam, said, "I expect to be able to work with the President and the administration." But he said "unless the President changes his ways with respect to the economy and the war, he is in serious trouble."

Tunney has called for withdrawal of all U.S. troops from Vietnam in 1971.

Milk Co-op Ordered To Pay Higher Prices

MADISON (AP) — A Wisconsin Department of Agriculture order that the Columbus Milk Producers' Cooperative in Astoria pay competitive milk prices stood up in court Tuesday.

The Wisconsin Supreme Court upheld a decision by Dane County Circuit Judge Norris Maloney directing the cooperative dip into reserves to maintain competitive prices to farmers delivering to its plant.

The case developed nearly three years ago. The cooperative said it had to cut back on the price for economic reasons.

Mrs. Nixon Picked by Rehabilitation Group

WASHINGTON (AP) — Mrs. Richard M. Nixon has been named for the first annual award of Rehabilitation International and will go to Chicago Nov. 6 to receive it.

Announcing this Thursday, the White House said the First Lady was being honored for "outstanding contributions to the cause of volunteer activities."

Detroit Mayor Blasts Lindsay's Brain Drain

DETROIT (AP) — Mayor Roman Gribbs has told New York Mayor John Lindsay to "do your Christmas shopping" for administrative talent in Chicago or Los Angeles—instead of making further raids on Detroit.

"I'm getting a bit tired of my aides coming in here waving their clipboards and demanding salary adjustments," Gribbs said in a letter to Lindsay.

"Every time we send one of them to the East Coast we have to check and see if he bought a round trip ticket," Gribbs' letter added.

Lindsay recently hired Patrick Murphy away from his job as Detroit police commissioner for a similar assignment in New York.

Since then, according to City Hall sources, City Controller Robert Roselle, Gribbs' administrative aide Philip Tannian and James Tainor, head of the mayor's Industrial and Commercial Committee, have been offered jobs in Lindsay's administration, as have several others.

Others Going
Also, Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas and Undersheriff Loren Pittman have confirmed offers to join the New York police department since Murphy's departure.

Lucas reportedly was tendered a $35,000-a-year post as Murphy's deputy.

"I know that in attempting to lure so many of my friends and aides to New York you are merely doing your part to help publicize the high caliber of public servants in Detroit," Gribbs wrote.

"Nevertheless, I wish you would spread your generosity around to some of our other colleagues. Already this week I have had calls from three mayors and two governors asking me to see what I can do to get being analyzed.

"I am not a smuggler," Miss Fonda, daughter of actor Henry Fonda, said in a letter to Lindsay.

Actress Jane Fonda Faces Drug Smuggling Charges

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Actress Jane Fonda faces a charge today on a charge of assaulting a policeman during a hassle over her arrest on a charge of pill smuggling.

Due next Monday is a preliminary hearing on a federal charge of fraudulently bringing stimulants and tranquilizers into the United States from Canada and assaulting Edward P. Matuszak, a customs agent.

The lively scene at Hopkins International Airport began when Miss Fonda, 32-year-old wife of French film director Roger Vadim, was detained Tuesday after a flight from London, Ont.

The pill charge was based on a "small quantity" of prescription Dexedrine, Compazine and Valium pills found in Miss Fonda's handbag, her attorneys said.

Denies Smuggling
But Asst. U.S. Atty. Edward Molnar said 105 vials containing some 2,000 other capsules were found in a suitcase and were being analyzed.

"I am not a smuggler," Miss Fonda, daughter of actor Henry Fonda, said in a police station news conference. She complained she had been held incommunicado at the airport for three hours and "pushed" Matuszak only after he blocked her way to a telephone and a restroom.

"She attempted to strike him several times, with some obscenity mixed in," Molnar said. Police patrolman Robert Pieper said the actress kicked him in the thigh when he went to Matuszak's aid.

Miss Fonda has been active in protests against U.S. policy in Vietnam and in behalf of GI rights, American Indian claims, civil rights and the Black Panthers.

She said she had been harassed each time she re-entered the United States since becoming an activist.

"They were determined to charge her for something, so they made up a charge of assaulting a policeman," said her attorney, Mark Lane.

Miss Fonda, who spent some 10 hours in jail before being freed on two personal bonds of $5,000 and $500, said she was jailed "for political reasons."

Miss Fonda, wearing a suede maxicoat and slacks, appeared before U.S. Commissioner Clifford Bruce on the federal charge.

Her hands in her coat pockets, she told Bruce she had no U.S. residence "fortunately," and when Bruce insisted that she must have some domestic residence, she asked, "Why?"

"I left the United States six years ago because I just wanted to see what it was like to live in Europe and because I wasn't too happy here," she told newsmen later.

The smuggling charge against Miss Fonda is punishable by a fine of up to $10,000, up to five years in prison or both.

The federal assault charge carries a maximum fine of $5,000 and maximum sentence of three years or both.

Eisenbergs Will Appeal

Attorneys Slapped By Supreme Court To Fight Ruling

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Wisconsin Supreme Court's suspension of attorneys Sidney Eisenberg and his son Alan D. Eisenberg's licenses to practice "definitely will be appealed," the elder Eisenberg said Tuesday.

"I haven't seen the decision," he said. "Obviously it's something that is going to be appealed."

"The Eisenbergs, Klezke and before U.S. Commissioner Clifford Bruce on the federal charge," he said, adding there are other attorneys, including his wife, in the firm to keep it operating.

"As far as Alan and I are concerned, we'll abide by whatever rulings apply," Eisenberg said.

The high court found the Milwaukee attorneys "guilty of irresponsible and unprofessional conduct" in connection with the death of a Milwaukee Judge and

Invitation to Lead Parade Recalled

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP) — Army Capt. Ernest L. Medina, a defendant in the alleged My Lai massacre, won't be riding as honorary grand marshal in a Veterans Day parade here next month after all, says the parade chairman.

Paul Bulch said Wednesday the invitation which he had personally extended to Medina was withdrawn because of numerous phone calls threatening protests Nov. 8.

Medina, commander of the company which made a sweep through My Lai in March 1968, is stationed at Ft. McPherson, Ga., awaiting trial.

Original Amateur Hour Ends Its Long Career

Oldest Network Program, 23 Years on TV
With 13 More on Radio, Quietly Fades

BY JOEL DREYFUSS
NEW YORK (AP) — The years went by but the scenario remained the same. The hoofers, crooners and comedians performed frantically for the audience's approval, then basked in the applause that brought them one step nearer to the elusive world of "show biz."

Ted Mack's Original Amateur Hour, the oldest program on network television, had emerged unscathed in the changeover from radio to television, survived two wars and settled into a comfortable routine while the rest of television sought desperately to understand the taste of its audience.

The show finally died, quietly. CBS said Monday it had been canceled, when it was not renewed by the sponsor, Geritol.

Wasn't Missed
The Amateur Hour had not been seen since late September, but its disappearance was not noticed because of a number of National Football League doubleheaders that preempted its Sunday slot.

For nearly 23 years—36 years counting the time on radio—a parade of performers presented their routines to audiences across America.

Most remained amateurs, even if they won. But over the years some of the entertainment world's most luminous personalities had their first national exposure on the show—and a lot of them went away losers.

Sinatra, Maria Callas
There was skinny Frank Sinatra, a member of the "Hoboken Four" quartet. They were on in 1935, and lost. Ann-Margret appeared in 1957 but the audience gave its vote to a South American who played a tune on a laurel leaf.

Some winners who went on to professional success included comedian Jack Carter, 1941; singers Pat Boone, 1953, and Teresa Brewer, 1938. A fat 12-year-old soprano named Maria Kalogeropoulos made the winners circle in 1935. She went on to greater operatic fame as Maria Callas.

Over the years, more than 25,000 acts were presented—barber-shop quartets, dancers, standup comics and specialty acts. They often had unpronounceable names and came from memorable places.

The dress and hair styles of the land changed, music evolved into louder and more rhythmic forms, but on the Amateur Hour, time was frozen in a golden past.

The ones who made national television were already survivors of a stringent screening process. Three units of talent scouts crisscrossed the country constantly looking for new talent. Mack estimated that only one out of 25 applicants made the TV grade.

Presley Turned Down
At auditions in Nashville, the scouts turned down a young man with an unusual singing style. His hair kept falling in his eyes and he wouldn't stand still. His name was Elvis Presley.

The show was started in 1934 by Major Edward Bowes when he was the publicity-minded director of a Broadway movie house. It became a pioneering program on network radio in 1935 and within a year was the rage.

It outpointed such radio era superstars as Rudy Vallee, Burns and Allen, Jack Benny, Eddie Cantor and Big Crosby.

Mack Takes Over
When Bowes died in 1946 Mack, a saxophone player who had been his talent supervisor, took over.

He presided over the first television broadcast, on Jan. 18, 1948 over the four-station DuMont television network—six months before Ed Sullivan's variety hour made its on-camera debut.

CBS long tolerated the relatively low ratings of the show—10 million viewers—because of its low cost. "We're devoted to the show," a CBS executive said in 1968. "We wouldn't lose it for the world."

This Broadway cast of four will present the off-Broadway hit "A Whitman Portrait" at 8:15 p.m. Wednesday, Nov. 4, at the UW Fox Valley campus theater. Allan Frank, right, portrays the 19th century American poet.

Greer Garson Appears in Shiloh Story

BY TV SCOUT

6:30-7:30 Channel 5 — The Men From Shiloh benefits from the charming presence of Greer Garson, as a lady attorney defending Trampas on a murder charge. E. G. Marshall plays the judge hearing the case, a man who wants to get away on a vacation but who falls for the wiles of Miss Garson. The dialogue has a light touch, none of it to be taken seriously and the cast, which also includes James Whitmore, Jay Robinson, Ken Tobey, Pam McMyler, Michael Bow, Paul Fix and Ron Soble, is very competent.

6:30-7:30 Channels 2-7 — The Storefront Lawyers asks you to believe that a young assistant D. A. would reveal privileged information to the girl he likes, that girl being one of the defending attorneys in the case involved. Tony Roberts, a good young Broadway actor, plays this chap and he and Sheila Larken, as Deborah, give the script the little believability it manages.

7:30-8 Channels 2-7 — The Governor and J. J. has a very funny show which combines snappy dialogue and more sight gags than usual. These involve an Italian maid, hired to assist Sara (Norma Marlowe). She doesn't speak English and is clumsy to the point of dropping hors d'oeuvres in the governor's lap. Rather than fire her, J. J. does what she thinks is a logical thing: hire the girl's husband, who speaks English.

7:30-8 Channels 11-9 — An elderly Jewish mother type becomes a drop-in at Room 222. Naomi Stevens plays an occupant of a senior citizens home who decides to attend classes on parents' day. She enchants everyone, with her story of her arrival in this country, and becomes a regular.

8-9 Channel 5 — David Janssen ties on his skates and Florence Henderson drops in for a guest appearance on Highlights of the 1971 Ice Capades, but the professional skaters carry this show. This is the 31st edition of Ice Capades and people like Tim Wood, the 1970 Champion, and Jorge and Helga Valle, skating adagio dancers, are at their best.

10:30-11:30 Channel 2 — Have you ever noticed how on TV medical shows, "someone goes into the hospital for something curable (like a girl who has taken a spill on her motorbike), but winds up with something fatal? It happens again on Medical Center with Laurie Prange the girl who has, in addition to her other injuries,

Psoriasis Is Problem For Victims Any Age

BY G. C. THOSTESON, M.D.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Please explain causes and treatment of psoriasis. My daughter, 7, has it on her knees, elbows, and ankles. I apply a cortisone and tar salve which our doctor prescribed.

Has a cure ever been found? Is there a foundation working toward a possible cure?—Mrs. L.A.D.

It is not unusual for psoriasis to start in early childhood.

little better, although perhaps not much. But untreated patches of psoriasis can at times become so itchy that the patient can't help scratching, sometimes until the skin bleeds. Medication to stop itching is about all that anyone can scientifically promise. If you get rid of the psoriasis, count yourself lucky.

I don't know of any foundations devoted to psoriasis, since it is not a threat to life and in most cases is harmless except for being unsightly and a nuisance. (At times it can attack the hair or nails, and in such cases a dermatologist should be kept close watch.) You still can't count it as a handling "dangerous disease," and it is not infectious or "catching." However, it is such a common and annoying disorder that there is a good deal of scientific study in progress, in hopes of finding a reliable treatment and possibly the cause.

Until that succeeds, use whatever keeps the itching under control and try to be philosophical about it. I don't say you have to like it, but why spend a lot of money hunting for a cure until you are sure one has been found. Going from doctor to doctor is usually futile.

Acne is one of the most terrible problems of growing up. If you are afflicted with this aggravation, or if you have children who are, writing to Dr. Thosteson in care of The Post-Crescent for a copy of his helpful and comforting booklet, "The Teen-Age Problem." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope, and 25 cents in coin to cover cost of printing and handling.

Dr. Thosteson

Again, it may not begin until adulthood.

Why? That's the big question. If anyone knew the cause of psoriasis, then we might be on the road to a reliable cure, and the makers of patent medicines would have to turn to something else.

But right now there is no known sure cure. The cortisone and tar ointment is one of the most accepted and effective therapies, but there are others.

With sometimes one treatment, sometimes another, the psoriasis disappears or subsides. Or it may be all treatments fail. Psoriasis, we know, often can wax and wane without any visible reason. Because of this, it is difficult to be sure whether a treatment helps—or whether it is just coincidence. A patient should have this explained to him.

Various other salves and ointments have been tried. So have very rigid diets. And even some powerful (and dangerous) drugs which have to be used with great care. Yet there is no assurance that even these drastic measures will work.

My advice, by and large, to psoriasis patients is to have a dermatologist prescribe one or another of the salves that can be depended upon to soften the skin and prevent scaling and itching.

That will make the skin look a

Voter Turnout Is Higher Than 1966, Lower Than 1968

There were lively local and heavier this year than last but Outagamie County voter turnout in Tuesday's election was lower than 1966, 40,625 in 1966 and 42,469 in 1968 but Outagamie County voter turnout generally was far behind the 1968 presidential year; however, it was ahead of the 1966 vote total.

Much of a 10 per cent increase in the county's gubernatorial voter turnout probably reflects an increase in the number of registered voters, brought out over 3,000 more. But another factor possibly hindering Tuesday's turnout was poor weather.

Unofficial county statistics indicated that the three top gubernatorial vote-getters received 33,034 votes compared with 30,693 in 1966 and 42,469 in 1968.

The trend was similar in neighboring Waupaca and Calumet counties. In Waupaca, the vote totals were 11,130 this year, 15,029 in 1966 and 10,460 in 1968. In Calumet, the totals showed 8,494 in 1970, 10,029 in 1966 and 7,546 in 1968.

Statewide, about 160,000 more voters made a choice for governor than had done so in 1966, but this is the unofficial tabulation with still about 100 of the state's 3,300 precincts still to report. In any case, this represents a more than 14 per cent increase.

State voters, with 3,202 of 3,314 precincts in, cast 1,324,669 ballots compared with 1,165,299 in 1966 and 1,684,563 two years ago.

The vote totals trend for other state offices, including attorney general, was similar to that of the governor. For example, the attorney general vote totals were about 32,000 for the top two candidates this year compared with totals of nearly 40,000 in 1968 and 29,833 in 1966.

The voting patterns for the three assembly seats in the county were somewhat irregular although both the 1966 and 1970 totals were well below the 1968 presidential election year figures.

In the 1st Dist., unofficially 10,623 voters went to the polls Tuesday compared with 10,640 four years ago and 13,200 in 1968. Some 10,500 2nd Dist. residents voted in the 1970 assembly race while 9,077 had voted in 1966 and over 13,000 two years ago.

There was a strong jump in voter turnout in the 3rd Dist. Tuesday when unofficially 11,337 persons voted. In 1966, there were 9,837 at the polls and in 1968, over 14,000.

For the Eighth Dist. Congressional seat, voter totals again were strongest in 1968, but they also were about 2,000

Calumet County Election

Hephner Retains Assembly Post

CHILTON — Gervase Hephner, incumbent Democratic assemblyman for Calumet County from Chilton, was swept into office for his third term Tuesday by winning in 17 of the county's 18 precincts.

Hephner polled 5,701 votes while his opponent James Struebing was getting 2,729 votes, receiving a winning margin in the Town of Brillion, his home precinct.

Struebing is the son of former Rep. Wilmer H. Struebing who Hephner defeated in 1966. This was his first attempt at a public office.

Theodore (Ted) Pagel, a New Holstein businessman, former Calumet County deputy sheriff and a city policeman, polled 5,350 votes to win sheriff's post on the Republican ticket.

He defeated Garnett (Pete) Peterson, a hilton city policeman, who ran on the Democratic ticket after winning a place on the ballot by a write-in vote of 359 in the spring primary election. He polled 2,969 in Tuesday's election.

C. J. Kosmosky, the incumbent sheriff, did not seek re-election.

In the only other county race Lorna Schoen, the incumbent Republican treasurer had a total of 4,656 votes to defeat her Democratic opponent Lorraine Ammerman who polled 3,471 votes.

disbelief. Some readily admitted they knew Democrats William Proxmire and Calvin Spicer and William Rogers would win. That was bad enough. But Patrick Lucey? "My God, Nixon was even here. What more could you ask for?" a woman exclaimed as the penciled tabulations flashed onto a wall put Jack Olson increasingly behind.

Sometimes it was a little hard to tell the winners from the losers at the VFW Club.

Assemblyman Ervin

(Butch) Conradt, although he stomped John Bowers, continued to malign his Democratic opponent for "a filthy campaign" and The Post-Crescent for not liking him (Conradt) or giving him a fair break. In his victory address, Conradt said he wanted to show the voters he could win without The Post-Crescent. Of Olson's loss, Conradt declared, "I'd rather lose than have him lose."

And Speaker of the Assembly Harold Froehlich, obviously uneasy over the showing made by his Democratic opponent Glenn Thompson, exclaimed, "I haven't gone door to door in Appleton in four years. It looks like next time we'll go door to door."

"Lucey 2-1 in Kimberly," and "Kennedy wins Massachusetts," and "Stevenson wins Illinois," the projector at the Republican waiting place flashed.

Biggest Party

A few candidates had their own parties. In terms of numbers of people and pitchers of beer, Spicer's party probably was the biggest. But then he had a big reason to have a big party. He easily became the county's first four-term sheriff and he did it as a Democrat.

Upstairs at the VFW Club in Kaukauna, Spicer, his wife, daughters and son along with as many of his followers who could jam around the small radio, savored the returns. Downstairs, party goers were wall to wall, including a large number of policemen and many Republicans who left the Appleton VFW Club early.

Across Kaukauna, at the Hub Bar, Rogers was telling his followers that he expected Lucey to win. "The Republicans talked too much law and order. They talked like the Democrats were against law and order."

There was the smell of barbecues and beer and victory.

"It'll be a pleasure," Rogers replied when asked if he looked forward to working with a Democratic governor.

A man and a woman who had seen many elections come and go, walked up to Rogers.

Outagamie Fills Surveyor's Post

James Hebert, a 28-year-old land surveyor, is the new Outagamie County surveyor.

Running unopposed as an independent, Hebert, of 1413 E. Marquette St., Appleton, drew 2,722 votes.

This may not be unusual, but until now the county thought there was no such job.

The state, however, breathed new life into the post with a bill last year which set a minimum annual salary of $1,500 for the surveyor and requires the county to furnish him with an office. At the same time, the legislature said that only registered surveyors were eligible.

Under terms of the bill, the county could have taken formal action and either abolished the post or made it appointive. Outagamie County did neither. Some officials also contend it takes a constitutional amendment to eliminate the post.

2nd District Race

Routhieaux Defeated By Byers in Waupaca

WAUPACA — Second District Rep. Francis R. Byers captured the Waupaca County vote by a 2 to 1 margin over his opponent, Harold W. Routhieaux, D-Clintonville, leading Republican candidates for state and local candidates into office.

Only two Democrats, Senator William Proxmire and Congressman David R. Obey, were elected by county voters.

Byers received 7,404 votes and Routhieaux 3,395. Byers, who will be serving his second assembly term, won in 49 of 743 precincts, and tied in a 73 to 73 vote in the second ward of the City of Clintonville. Routhieaux won 860 City of Clintonville, 305 carried the Towns of Harrison, Matheson and Wyoming. Byers carried the Clintonville vote almost three to one, winning with 1,127 votes to Routhieaux's 482.

Approximately 40 per cent of the county's eligible voters cast their ballots.

Republicans Jack B. Olson R. and David O. Martin received 5,727 votes for governor and 5,727 votes for their opponents. Patrick J. Lucey, D, and Martin J. Schreiber received 4,953 votes.

Paying Deductibles Early Can Cut Taxes

BY SYLVIA PORTER

(In collaboration with the Research Institute of America)

Another way to lower your 1970 taxable income and raise your 1971 taxable income — so you can take maximum advantage of next year's lower, more the deduction for interest pre-paid for a period running beyond 1971. An even a shorter prepayment is a doubtful deduction, because the treasury will bar this deduction if it feels there is what it terms a "material distortion of income."

The treasury ruling may not stand up in the courts if it is challenged, but if you try to deduct such a prepayment you do so at your own risk.

Now, let's move on to the standard deduction — which can be the key to a particularly profitable year-end tax savings but also speed up other expenses that you otherwise would have postponed until next year. This can give you a larger actual deduction in 1970 than your 1970 standard deduction. Then next year, deduct your larger standard deduction. You can come out with a higher total deduction for 1970 and 1971 than you could get by taking either the standard deduction in both years or your actual deductions in both years.

To illustrate, say your adjusted gross income is about $10,000 and your actual deductible out-year. In December, you get $1,300 standard deduction. Your total deductions for the year right after year-end when expenses, charities, etc., run 1971 which ordinarily you would pay in 1971. In December, you been taking the $1,000 standard deduction each year because charitable contribution which you did no year-end tax planning. Just by paying the expenses a few weeks — or even a few days — earlier you get tax savings from an extra $600 of deductions.

favorable tax rates — is to accelerate your payment of deductible items. You will, in short, be switching income by deducting in 1970 expenses which you ordinarily would pay and deduct in 1971.

— Get bills for deductible items and pay them no later than December — even though you aren't pressed for payment and normally would not pay until January. You might also pay in the next several weeks charitable contributions you otherwise would be paying in 1971.

— Prepay in 1970 and deduct on your 1970 return your 1971 state and local taxes and your 1971 real estate taxes, if the state or local taxing authority will accept this year your prepayments for '71 as estimated tax payments or in any other form. The tax law generally does not permit you to deduct prepayments for any expenses other than taxes.

Palace Court Salad

Bird and Bottle Party

Memories to Share

By Lillian Mackesy POST-CRESCENT FOOD EDITOR

It's quite a thrill to stand ankle deep in a field of lettuce bigger than a Wisconsin back 40 and pick one's very own salad. The beautiful, light green lettuce sparkled in the California sunshine. The field workers moved in threesomes down the rows, two cutters expertly and swiftly choosing or discarding heads of lettuce, then deftly chopping them free with a wicked-looking knife. The third, follow-up member of the team packed the lettuce heads in a huge box, ready for the truck.

The scene was in the Salinas Valley in Monterey County, Calif., known as the Nation's Salad bowl. There was beauty in the field tour for the 150 food editor guests of the Western Growers Association, the Western Iceberg Lettuce, Inc., and the Paul Masson Vineyards.

Not only was the "instant salad" a great success, each editor-picking her own head of lettuce, but the scene changed with the bus trip as the group moved from lettuce fields to those of Brussels sprouts (they grow in the center of the plant where the broad leaves meet the stalk), then to great fields of broccoli, the oversized patches of carrots with fern-like greens glistening under myriads of field sprinklers. Cauliflower, the cool weather cousin of the common cabbage was seen and, at Castroville, the acres and acres of artichokes that stretch along the coast.

The Salinas Valley field trip ended with a tour of the Masson winery at the firm's Pinnacles Vineyards. Here, a brand new wine called Baroque was introduced at a dinner under a beautiful dining tent. It was a delightful climax to a busy day with the special menu featuring Boeuf a la Mode Baroque (pot roast of beef, beautifully prepared and named for the new wine and the elaborate and elegant 18th century period).

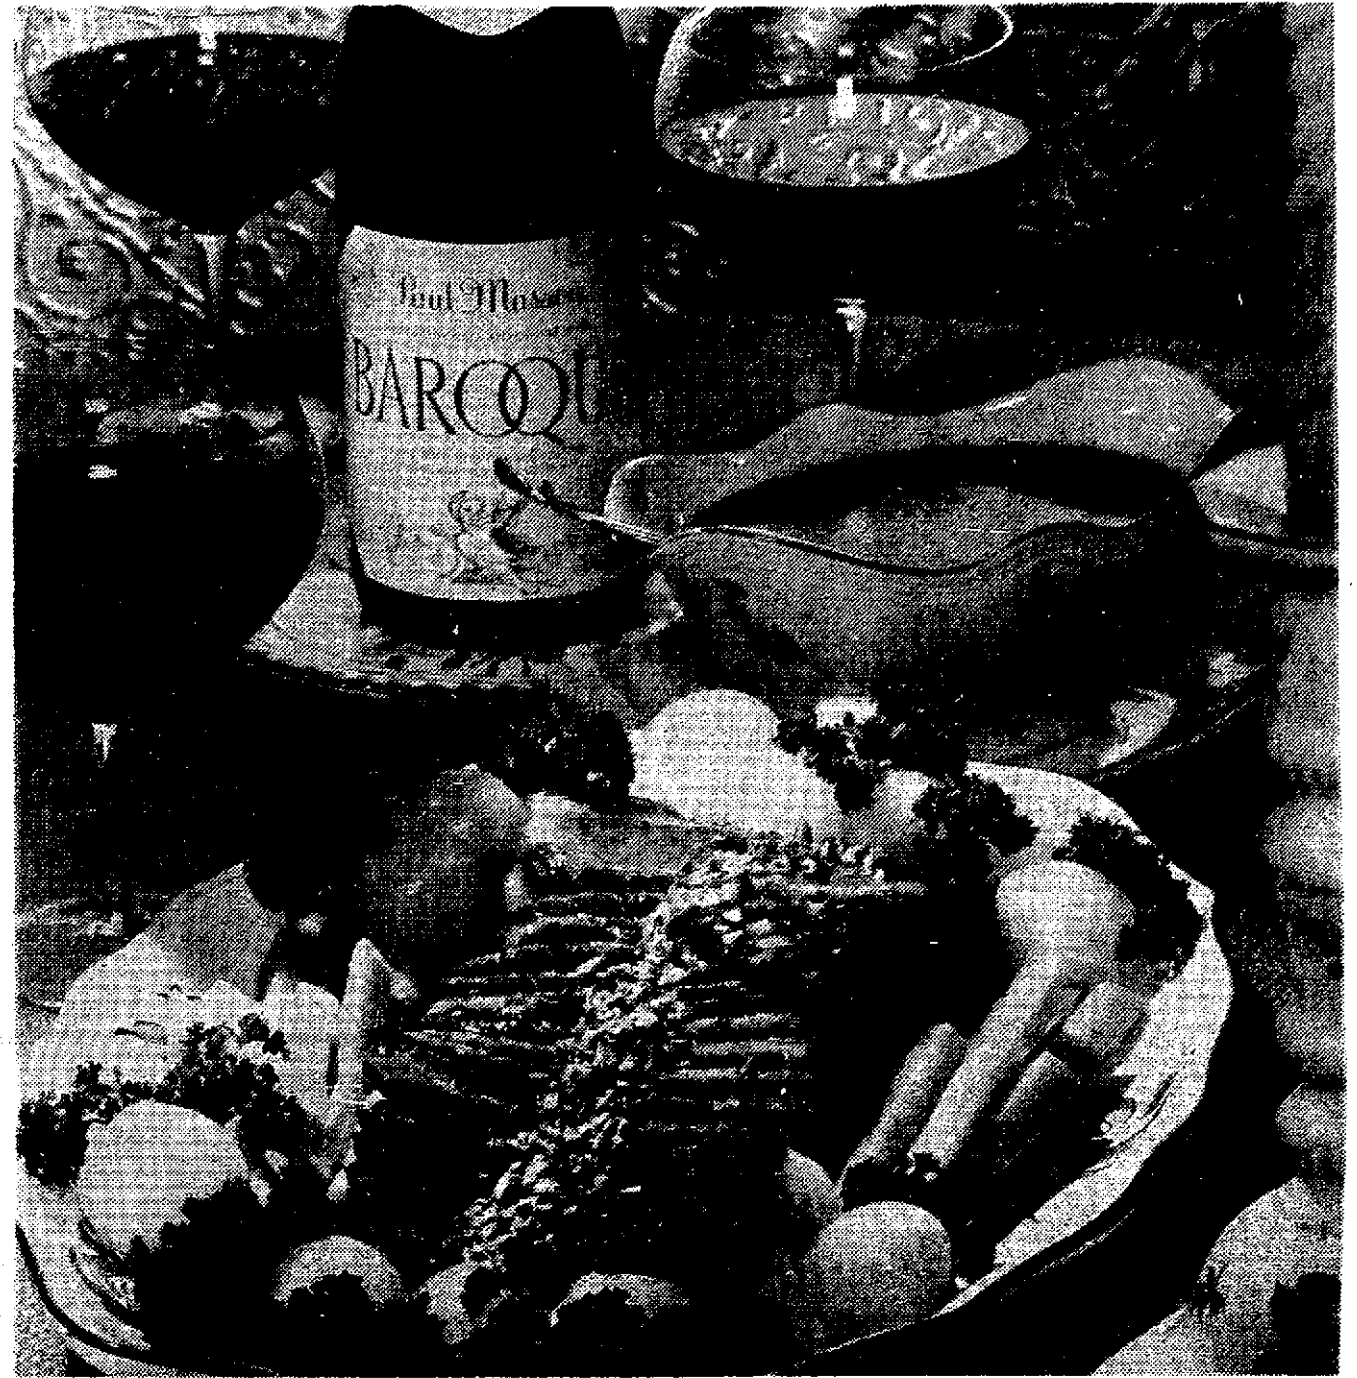

Earlier in the week, an old family vineyard and winery in the gravely Livermore Valley had been visited with a magnificent "Bird and Bottle" dinner served in the winery at the shadow of the huge, 80-year-old casks. This, too, was a memorable event — presented by The Wine Institute and the Concannon Vineyard. Dinner was in the cool, dark aging rooms filled with the fragrance of crushed grapes fermenting.

The menu also is a wonderful one to share with readers because it's feasible to serve back home for a special gathering. The birds were game hens baked in clay to hold the flavor of the wine and herbs that season them. When the clay is whacked (with a mallet or hammer) and removed, the bird is hot, fragrant and tender. Finger-sized rolls of rice pilaf wrapped in grape leaves, a variety of vegetable relishes and chilled (both white and red for choice) wine was served with the birds. Fruit and cheese was the dessert... with more wine, including samples of rose.

Another memorable meal, this time in the gold and glitter elegance of the historic Garden Court of the Sharaton-Palace,

New Nutrition Booklet Penetrates Label Secret

BY ARTHUR E. ROWSE

WASHINGTON — Did you know —That you get more calories from a 3½-ounce glass of dessert wine than from two four-inch pancakes or two and a half chocolate chip cookies?

—that you get more protein (and calories) from a cup of lima beans than from one hot dog?

—that you get only nine to 13 ounces of cooked meat out of a pound of fresh ground beef?

These are a few of the goodies contained in a newly revised booklet of nutritional data published by the U.S. Department of Agriculture under the title, "Nutritive Value of Foods."

Within the 42 pages of this publication are detailed data on 615 common food products. The information includes the percentage of water and quantities of other ingredients in a typical serving.

The other ingredients include food energy (calories), protein, fat, carbohydrate, calcium, iron, vitamin A value, thiamin, riboflavin, niacin and ascorbic acid (Vitamin C).

As an added attraction, fatty acids are also listed, with a breakdown for saturated and unsaturated kinds.

In addition, there is a table of recommended daily dietary allowances listing the chief nutrients for people of varied ages and sizes and a table showing the amount of shrinkage that occurs when meat is cooked.

Aid to Shopping List
With the information in this booklet, a consumer theoretically can figure out the exact daily nutritional needs of a family and make up a shopping list to reflect those needs as well as personal tastes.

Few shoppers have the time or inclination to go this far largely because it would make the task too boring. Shopping is already boring and difficult enough, especially at a time when prices are rising so steadily.

But the publication nevertheless has enough information to surprise most consumers about how much water, fat, protein and other ingredients are hidden behind fancy packages and labels that say as little as possible without violating state and Federal laws.

With this information, a smart shopper can learn quite a few secrets that could save money. The principal device is the art of substituting less expensive food items for more expensive ones of comparable nutritional value.

This usually boils down to a search for cheaper sources of protein, such as the substitution of fish, cheese, eggs and poultry for red meat when price levels dictate such action.

Relieve Purse Pinch
Eating habits and personal tastes, however, often stand in the way of efforts to vary menus and cut household expenses. This booklet could provide a housewife with the ammunition to support such changes and convince others of their value in relieving the pinch on pocketbooks.

Many people prefer to fill in the hit-or-miss nutritional gaps with vitamin and mineral pills or potions. But this can be more expensive than getting them naturally through carefully selected foods.

Tonics like Geritol, for example, are consumed by countless thousands of people without realizing that they are also buying as much alcohol as they would get in an equal amount of champagne, at more than champagne prices.

If you are looking for cheaper sources of vitamins and minerals, your first step should be to send 30 cents to the Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C., 20402, for a copy of "Nutritive Value of Foods" (HG-72).

Poorhouse Getting Crowded

We Never Had It So Good or Spent It So Fast

Did you know that more American families are going bankrupt today than did during the 1930s Depression? Or that the U.S. installment debt is higher than at any time in the nation's history? Or that recent surveys indicate a major cause of divorce in this country is poor family finance? Such facts come as no shock to anyone who has studied how Americans spend the money they earn. But it is ironic that a nation which excels so spectacularly in everything from space technology to mass production, fails in the all-important area of family financial management.

Yet, three out of every five American families who face a financial management decision in 1970 will probably not make the best move, and many will incur debt because they've ignored sound financial planning.

Contrary to what most people believe, middle-class and upper-class families are actually the poorest financial managers. A recent survey among social agencies revealed that three-fourths of all the requests for financial planning assistance came from families earning more than $10,000 a year.

The group considered most susceptible to money problems is the young marrieds, 20 to 35 years old, with children. The fastest-growing segment of our population, this group enjoys a higher standard of living than any previous similar group, yet few have reached financial maturity.

A major problem confronting this age group is indebtedness. It is difficult, of course, to generalize what a family's debt limit should be, but many financial planners use this rule of thumb: don't incur debt (not including your mortgage) of more than 18 percent to 20 percent of your after-tax income. Thus, if your income is $15,000 annually, your safe debt limit is $3,000.

In many cases, misuse of credit can begin or compound debts. This involves not only using credit unnecessarily, but also paying too much for the credit privilege itself. Actually, most Americans are unaware that you can shop around for the best bargain in credit. You can price the money you borrow just as you price the goods in the supermarket. So wide is the range of what borrowed money can cost you, that sometimes you can pay as much as three times at one source for money.

Fortunately, the "truth-in-lending" law now requires that retailers and lenders declare their annual interest rates on either an installment purchase or a loan. Thus, consumers now have a measuring stick they can use. For instance, you'll be able to see that a finance charge of $11 per $100 on a used car amounts to approximately 22 percent true interest annually. Similarly, a revolving charge of 1½ percent a month is 18 percent per year, and a discounted bank loan of $6 per $100 is really 12 percent a year. But a simple demand loan at 7 percent reflects the actual figure — just 7 percent.

Another area where money management mistakes and expenses seem to crop up is in large, unexpected expenditures. Medical expenses for instance, are increasing at a rate that is twice as high as other living costs. No wonder a credit bureau recently attributed one-third of all family financial difficulties to medical bills.

Educational expenses, for college or other study, invariably seem to come upon the family before anyone realizes it. Even families that tried to prepare in this area often have difficulty because of rapidly rising costs. Typical costs at universities today total $15,000 for the four-year course, and these costs are rising at the rate of 5 percent to 6 percent per year.

Because of all these financial problems, more American families are becoming aware of the need to put their family finances on a sound, business-like basis. They are beginning to realize increasingly how important long-range financial planning is.

But, most American families are unable to develop a successful family financial plan on their own. It's not that they don't have enough experience or training. Short-hand, typing, computer programming and TV commercial production — U.S. schools teach these and hundreds of other specialized subjects, but seldom any in financial planning for the layman.

Many major insurance companies are now helping families through their trained financial planners. In developing specially-tailored plans, they consider the income and expenses of the entire family, tabulate and project them, and then evaluate them along with the family's objectives and goals — both short-term and long-range.

The benefits of successful financial planning are great. It can keep you out of debt, make possible Johnny's college education, that new house in the suburbs or the second car you need to buy. But, more importantly, it can bring security to you and your family — and make life more enjoyable for all of you.

Oh! What Lovely Poppies

Poppies — 250 of them — brought town and gown together recently, when the American Legion Post 38 Auxiliary donated flowers to the Lawrence Theatre Company for use in its production of "Oh! What a Lovely War." Accepting the poppies from Mrs. Roger Rusch, auxiliary president, are Lawrence 'freshmen, Valerie Kuehn, Morton Grove, Ill., and Peggy Plunkett, St. Paul. The two girls are in charge of props for the production which will begin a four-day run Nov. 11 in Stansbury Theatre of the Music-Drama Center.

Cook a Safe Turkey For Thanksgiving

Don't, don't, don't partially roast that bird the night before to finish cooking in the morning! says Mrs. Shirley Watson, university extension home economist for Winnebago County. And never leave it in a cool oven overnight because of lack of refrigerator space.

Don't roast your turkey in the oven all night long at a low temperature. Instead roast it at the proper, higher temperature for fewer hours in the morning to effectively destroy bacteria.

The internal temperature of the bird, when done, should be 180-185 degrees Fahrenheit. (To best test for temperature, insert a meat thermometer in the center of the bird's inner thigh muscle so its doesn't touch the bone.)

Because of these pointers, the contents of that "fridge" may have to be rearranged. But the assurance of a safe, wholesome meal for family and holiday guests makes it worthwhile.

The Ailing House Ventilate To Stop Dampness

Another Barrier Comes Falling Down

BY ROGER C. WHITMAN

Q: We just finished our basement, concrete floor and all, and no matter what I do, there is a damp odor. The dehumidifier runs all the time. What can I do? — Columbus.

A: All you can do is wait and ventilate. It takes a good deal of time for all the water to evaporate from new concrete. Meanwhile, don't store anything subject to mildew down there. Complete dry-out can take months, especially with the cold damp weather coming up.

Q: How can I keep the redwood ceiling under the overhang from turning black? It is quite dark now. What finish, if any, will prevent this in the future? — Elm Grove, Wis.

A: Air circulation under the overhang is so poor that the wood is always damp. This is an engraved invitation for mildew to move in. If scrubbing won't get it out, then you'll have to use wood bleach. One sure way to keep dampness from penetrating is to finish the wood with a highly water resistant finish, such as clear marine varnish. However, if the air behind the wood is damp, this won't protect. If you don't have them, I suggest considering those strips of aluminum vents. Check with your lumber yard.

Q: Please tell me what to use to remove floor paint from our so-called patio, which is a mess of scaling paint? — Mt. Vermont, Ohio.

A: If you have the time and patience, a heat lamp and wide-blade putty knife. Heat a section of paint until soft, then scrape it up. Quicker by far if you can rent a floor-sanding machine with lots of coarse paper. Trouble is, most tool rental places won't rent these machines for working on concrete; the dust messes up the motors. Best repainting is another layer of concrete already mixed with color.

When the doors to the First National Bank opened Monday, customers found some of the women employed there garbed in pantsuits — the first women in any Fox Cities bank to be allowed to deviate from the dress or skirt.

Registering both surprise and excitement, the women learned of their new privilege through a memo circulated Friday. The only stipulation set forth by the board of directors was that pantsuits be conservative in cut and color with jackets or vests worn at all time.

And so, with just a few words another barrier came tumbling down.

Vegetables a Must

Vitamin A is important for maintaining the body in good health. It also provides protection against night blindness. Dark green vegetables (turnip, collard, and mustard greens; spinach; green peas and beans) and dark yellow vegetables (carrots, sweet potatoes, and winter squash) contain lots of vitamin A. Have at least one serving of these vegetables every day.

Parents and Children

By Arnold Arnold

Are You Blaming the Kids?

The President's Commission on Campus Unrest has published its findings. The implications of this report apply not only to colleges, but also to high schools and to the home. The President's Commission distributes the blame for campus disorders fairly evenly. And if heeded, it may help calm and re-orient those to whom blaming the kids has become something of a national pastime. It is distressing when a Gallup Poll shows that 83 per cent of all adults over the age of 50 disapprove of youth behavior. These are the parents of the kids they disparage. If a very few are violent, if some are unappetizing, ill-mannered, rude, noisy or unkempt, the real questions that must be asked are:

Who or what turned these kids into what they are?

Who taught them to be or to behave in a manner that is offensive?

Aren't these kids symptoms, rather than causes of the things that bother us?

The issues that trouble both adults and kids . . . increasing difficulties in feeding, housing and caring for a family, rising unemployment, the war, the pollution of cities, the countryside, streams, lakes, oceans and forests and threats of potential destruction, can hardly be blamed on youth. Their impatience with our society's inability or unwillingness to come to grips with these problems is caused by the same frustration that makes adults use youth as scapegoats. The kids may not always express themselves politely. But adults who don't seem to give a damn if the world comes to an end as long as it lasts their lifetimes, are hardly considerate or trustworthy. You can't blame the kids for being restive and disillusioned with adults who take such a callous, short-range view of life.

Let's stop blaming the kids and let's start doing something about the conditions that make life difficult for most of us and unbearable for others. Let's lay the blame on the people who tolerate or even exploit these conditions. Blaming the kids divides adults from youth senselessly, without solving any of the real problems.

Do you blame your child for existing, for eating, for needing clothing or health care when you are short of cash? He didn't ask you to give him life. Do you blame your child when he does badly in school because you allowed him to stay up nights watching TV? Do you blame your child for using drugs when your bathroom medicine chest is full of sleeping pills, pep pills and tranquilizers? Let's get off the "blaming the kids" kick and start kicking ourselves for the harm we are doing them by the poor examples we set.

TRAIL

can your dry dog food say that?

Not a chance! New Trail Call is the one and only dry dog food sold in this area with real meat in every bite. Plus plenty of nutrients to help keep your little friend healthy and strong. Of course, Trail Call gives you all the benefits of ordinary dry food. It can be fed dry or moist. And there's no mixing, refrigerating or can opening. But that's where the similarity ends. Trail Call's a new breed! Comes in the shape of tasty little ribbons that look kind of like puffed meat. The ribbons absorb liquid faster than old fashion chunk style and send out a real meat aroma in the process. Lots of real meat taste, too. No question about it, New Trail Call is the finest dog food you can buy. Yet, it costs less and gives your dog more each feeding. What more can we say?

'Mail Must Get Through,' Insists Postal Worker

RENO, Nev. (AP) -- A bundle of absentee election ballots arrived at the county clerk's office election eve, with $5.36 postage due.

Washoe County Clerk Harry K. Brown refused the ballots and said there's no provision in the budget for postage-due mail. Brown is unopposed for re-election.

"I'll pay for these, said Asst. Postmaster Dwayne Evans, "and I'll do it again tomorrow if necessary."

The large ballot sheets, which required 12-cent postage, had been mailed with 6-cent stamps. They were delivered, with the extra postage out of Evans' pocket.

Women Supported in Attack On London Stock Exchange

By LEONARD KIRSCHEN
LONDON (AP) — The London Stock Exchange — one of the world's most exclusive all-male institutions — came under fire Thursday for sex discrimination.
The attack came from the Monopolies Commission, which ruled that sex discrimination is a form of restrictive professional practice.
Why, asked the commission, whose report on this state of affairs came out today, shouldn't a woman be allowed to make a pound or two on the floor of the stock exchange?
Woman's attack on this all-male sanctum has been persistent. Two years ago there were loud shouts of "no" when it was proposed to allow women to become stockbrokers. The exchange voted down a proposal to permit women in the business by a 67.8 per cent majority.

But it commissioned glamor girls in uniforms to show strangers around the exchange.
The Monopolies Commission said in its report: "The sex of the applicant (for a place in a profession) should not be a condition of entry unless — as is likely to be the case very rarely indeed — there are particular circumstances in the profession or of the service that affords grounds for confining it to one sex."
The commission noted that Lloyds of London, the hub of the world's insurance business, had relaxed its monastic claims to be all-male and in December last year let ladies become members.
They are not allowed to do active business, but are allowed to share in the gains and losses provided they have $210,000 apiece to put up in investment and reserves.

The Monopolies Commission warned that it may require government action to end this state of affairs and others that lead to restrictive action.

Applications Available for Teen Pageant

Miss American Teen-Ager Pageant will present the seventh Miss Wisconsin State Finals in Madison Aug. 20-21 in the grand ballroom of the Park Motor Inn.

The contest is open to all girls, ages 13 through 17. Girls, who are judged for their civic contributions, scholastic achievement, poise, personality and appearance, must still be 17 on Sept. 11.

This is neither a talent nor swimsuit contest, but rather the oldest and largest teen-ager pageant of its kind in the nation. In its 12th year nationally, the pageant is cited in the Congressional Record for its outstanding contribution to teen-age girls.

The Madison winner will travel to Palisades Park, N. J., in September with a chaperone and all expenses paid to represent her state in the National Finals where she will compete for the title of Miss American Teen-Ager.

Miss Wisconsin Teen-Ager 1970, Miss Paula Prickrill, Wausau, will be travelling throughout the state of Wisconsin until the state finals in August. Holding the title of Miss American Teen-Ager is Miss Kim Graham of Georgia.

Interested girls may obtain applications by writing the Official Certification Office for the State of Wisconsin, 126 Bunn Drive, Rockton, Ill., 61072.

Her Only Ring Will be One Around Tub

BY ANN LANDERS
DEAR ANN LANDERS: Our daughter, Hilda, is 28 years old, not sexy and man-crazy like most of the girls she works with in the insurance office. She is quiet and has always been reserved. Two years ago Hilda began to go out with a fellow who works in the same office. "Go out" might not be the right phrase because they actually don't go anywhere. Elliot comes to our home for dinner every Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday. After dinner we play cards or watch TV. Then he goes upstairs and takes a bath.

At first when Hilda asked if Elliot could use our tub it was because the plumbing in his rooming house was out of order. Then it got so he liked taking a bath here because our tub was larger and we always had plenty of hot water.
I don't mind this, Ann, except for one thing. Elliot never cleans the tub after himself. I have placed the can of scouring powder where he can't possibly miss it, but he doesn't take the hint.

Landers

When my husband sees the ring around the tub he becomes very annoyed. Is it worth mentioning? I'd hate to ruin Hilda's romance because we think he'll marry her eventually. We'd like your advice. — Undecided.
Dear Un: Hilda should tell Elliot to clean the tub after himself. Apparently no one has ever taught him it is good manners to do so. If this "ruins the romance" Hilda should be grateful that she didn't waste any more soap and water on the guy. My guess is the only ring she'll ever see is the one around the tub.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I would like to add a word to the letter from "Heartbroken" — the woman whose dear friend, a doctor's wife, died of cancer. She ignored a lump in her breast for several months and didn't mention it. Sixteen years ago I had cancer of the cervix. The pap test was virtually unknown in those days. Millions of women died because they had no idea they had cancer — until it was too late.
After my operation the doctor told me he couldn't be sure all the diseased tissue had been permanently removed, and we'd have to wait five years before I could be declared "cured." Thank God I was allowed to live and raise my young family. It is impossible to describe those five years. The fear of death hung over me like a black cloud, yet I had to present a cheerful face to my family and friends. Every time I went to the doctor for a checkup, I prayed. "Dear God, don't let him find anything."

Now I can look back at those years as a bad dream. I was lucky. And because I was lucky I feel a responsibility to

Wednesday, November 4, 1970 left women everywhere to the importance of an annual checkup. The pap test takes only a minute and it could mean the difference between life and death. — Counting My Blessings
Dear Counting: Breast Cancer is the number one killer of women in the United States. Cancer of the cervix is second. The pap test is painless, quick and inexpensive. Every woman should have a pap test once a year. The chances for complete cure of cervical cancer, if detected early, are excellent. I urge every female who reads this to

ON BRIDGE

IRA G. CORN JR.
TEAM CAPTAIN
In a bridge player's life, few events can compare with the thrill of playing a grand slam. Of course, the thrill is so much greater if the hand is made. One seldom hears about grand slams that failed.

*Ace asking (Gerber).
Two aces.
King asking.
*Three kings.
Bon voyage!

Opening lead: Jack of hearts.

North stretched a bit when he contracted for a grand slam. However, he may have been influenced by the fact that his partner was John Gerber of Houston. Gerber is an internationally famous player, known particularly for his accurate and lightning-like play of the hand.

Over Johnny's two no-trump bid, North jumped to four clubs, which is an ace-asking bid known as the Gerber convention. Responder shows the number of aces held as follows. With no aces, the response is four diamonds; with one, four hearts; with two, four spades, etc.

A bid of five clubs by the Interrogator asks for kings. These are shown by equivalent step responses (no kings: five diamonds; one king: five hearts, etc.)
The Gerber convention is most frequently used over opening bids of one or two no-trump. However, many players also use the convention in other bidding sequences.
One of the advantages of the convention is that the all-important information concerning aces is discovered at a lower level in the auction. Many times, when an insufficient number of aces is present, a pair can stop at the four level, thereby averting the inglorious experience of playing a five-level contract down only one.

Gerber wasted no time in the play. He saw immediately that success depended on losing no club tricks. There would be no problems if the suit divided evenly. If the suit divided three-one, the contract could still be made, provided the singleton were an honor, and provided Gerber knew which defender had the singleton.

Gerber's first move was to cash three rounds of hearts. East discarded a spade. Three rounds of spades came next. West discarding a diamond. Finally, three rounds of diamonds and East discarded a spade.

Gerber now had an exact picture of the opponent's distribution. West had started with five cards in each red suit, a doubleton spade and, therefore, a singleton club. If that club were only an honor.

Gerber played the king of clubs, squashing the jack and then led the 10 of clubs through East for a marked finesse. A simple count of the opponent's distribution led the way to scoring the grand slam.

was a luncheon given by Pop-peridge Farm people. Even the real gold service plates, usually saved for state functions or visiting VIPs, were brought out for the food editors. The Garden Court itself, once was part of the original Palace Hotel of 1875. It was damaged in the great fire of 1906 and then rebuilt in its present form. In keeping with tradition, the Palace Court Salad is renowned to San Francisco diners and has become a feature of the menu.

Although diced crab was used in the salad served at the food editors' conference, shrimp, chicken or tuna fish often is served instead.

Here are the recipes from San Francisco that helped make a memorable week.

PALACE COURT SALAD
Prepare a bed of finely shredded lettuce one-half-inch deep and about four inches in diameter. This is the base of the salad.

Center a thick slice of tomato on the lettuce, top with a large heart of artichoke, the "cup" side up.

Mix together some diced celery and diced crab with just enough mayonnaise to hold the

Elks' Ladies Install Officers

At a recent October meeting of the Elks' Ladies, outgoing president, Mrs. Rene Schu-macher installed the slate of officers for the new club year.

president is Mrs. Arlene Van Boogard. Other officers are Mrs. Beverly Zimmer, vice president; Mrs. Jane Golden, secretary, and Mrs. Shirley Hoersch, treasurer.

Gifts were presented to former officers.

mixture together.
Fill the cup of the artichoke with this mixture and build up a tower or mound, spoon by spoonful. Garnish with pimento.
Serve with Thousand Island

LITTLE BIRDS IN CLAY
4 Rock Cornish game hens
Salt
1/4 cup dry sherry
Heavy duty foil
1/4 cup very soft butter
1 tablespoon soy sauce
1/4 teaspoon paprika
1/4 teaspoon white pepper
1/4 teaspoon onion powder
1/4 teaspoon finely crumbled basil or oregano Clay (red or white ceramic clay), approximately 2 pounds for each bird

Thaw game hens, remove and save giblets for another use.
Rinse in cold water, drain and pat dry. Sprinkle inside cavities with salt and tie legs together.
Spoon one tablespoon sherry in each bird and place on large piece of foil.

Combine butter, soy, paprika, pepper, onion powder and herb Brush generously over birds.

Wrap tightly in foil. Shape clay into an oval large enough to enclose each bird and about 1/4 inch thick. Wrap around foil-pan, arranging rolls close together. Pour a little water or lightly enclosed. Cut slashes in broth (about 1/2 cup) into pan,
top of clay. Place birds on cover closely with foil. Bake in shallow baking pan. Bake in a very hot oven (475 to 500 degrees) 1 1/4 hours. Remove from oven, knock off clay and remove foil.

COOKING VARIATIONS
Prepare game hens as above, wrapping in foil only. Bake in very hot oven (475 to 500
degrees) one hour.

Prepare game hens as above,
but do not foil or clay wrap.
Place game hens in shallow pan.
Separate leaves carefully. Rinse
and roast in 450-degree oven one hour, basting after first half-pat dry

hour with half-cup dry sherry combined with fourth-cup melted butter.

GRAPE LEAVES STUFFED WITH BROWN RICE
1 can (10 1/2 oz.)
chicken broth
1/2 cup white dinner wine
1/2 cup water
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon crumbled basil
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup long grain
brown rice
1/2 cup grated Parmesan cheese
24 large grape leaves (commercially packed)

Combine broth, wine, water, onion, salt, basil and pepper.
Heat to boiling. Add rice, cover and cook over lowest heat for 35 to 40 minutes, until rice is tender and liquid absorbed.
Remove from heat, cool slightly and stir in cheese.
Rinse and drain grape leaves and remove stems. Place a rounded tablespoon of filling on each, near stem end, fold sides over and roll leaf. Place seam side down in shallow baking pan, arranging rolls close together. Pour a little water or lightly enclosed. Cut slashes in broth (about 1/2 cup) into pan,
top of clay. Place birds on cover closely with foil. Bake in shallow baking pan. Bake in a very hot oven (475 to 500 degrees) 1 1/4 hours. Remove from oven, knock off clay and remove foil.

GRAPE LEAVES
To use fresh grape leaves, pick large, tender leaves. Wash well in warm water. Or, Blanch quickly in boiling salted water until pliable.

Commercially packed grape leaves seem to be in good distribution. These are packed in jars and preserved in brine.
Separate leaves carefully. Rinse
and roast in 450-degree oven one hour, basting after first half-pat dry

WINE On the Table

By William Clifford

We thirsty Americans now drink 15 times more wine from Portugal than we drank a decade ago.

Very little of this is Portugal's famous old Porto, which is a dessert wine. Most of it is medium-dry dinner wine, either very lightly carbonated or still, pink in color — wine called vin rose.

Pink wines have soared in worldwide popularity during the last generation, and Portugal has led the way in their production. The important wine that outsells all others in the whole USA comes from Portugal — Lancers Vin Rose. The second best-selling wine is also a Portuguese rose.

Slightly Sweet

Exactly what are these wines that America has taken so much to heart? Lancers is the one that comes in a brown crocklike bottle. It has a pronounced vinosity, which is to say there's nothing weak or watery about it. You know you're drinking wine.

Its slight sweetness appeals to the palates of new wine drinkers and makes it easier to serve with a wide variety of foods. It has just enough carbonation to tingle the tongue — and to pay the same tax as champagne.

The demand for it is so great that the owners are currently building a whole new winery that can eventually turn out an additional 24 million bottles a year.

There's something especially festive about a pretty pink wine, and you may find it helpful to keep a bottle or two in the refrigerator at holiday season. Serve it in your fanciest goblets, by itself or with holiday cookies.

Rose wines are a traditional choice to accompany any and all foods, going equally well with turkey, ham, or whatever you're serving.

Finish Word Square
To Win Talking Globe

BY CAPPY DICK

Three words might make you the winner of an educational "Talking Globe" that not only shows the location of nations, cities, mountains, rivers, lakes and oceans of the earth, but also comes with a recording that means the very peak of anything. For the second row it is the name of something taken from mines. The word for the bottom row is a favorite dog or cat. When you know what these words are (and one necessary letter is already provided for each word) print the required letters in the blank spaces. Clip out the picture, paste it on a piece of paper, print your name, age, address and Zip Code number beneath it and decorate it in any neat, original way, using paints, crayons or cutouts. Originality and accuracy will count in the selection of winning entries, so do your best work.

The final step is to address your entry to Cappy Dick's Midweek "Talking Globe" Contest at The Post-Crescent and mail it before midnight of day after tomorrow.

The five neatest and most original correct entries received from local boys and girls will win qualifying prizes consisting of two tiny plastic "Racing Dogs" which are fun to put against each other in a race across the top of a table. These winning entries will compete with other local winners from other cities to find the five that are the neatest and most original of all. These will win the "Talking Globe."

Names of the winners will be published here and their prizes will be sent to their homes by mail. Judges' decisions will be final. All entries become Cappy Dick's property; none returned. Tomorrow: Directions for playing "restricted catch" game!

State Responsibility for Urban Affairs

Wisconsin's new governor will be faced with budgetary requests for programs which can be described as nonpartisan in nature. One of them emerged in total late last week in the proposed biennial budget for the Department of Local Affairs and Development.

The creation of the department, which received a somewhat misleading title to mask the fact that it really is concerned in the main with urban problems, and the gathering together of related state functions within the department will be one of the historic accomplishments of the Knowles administration as a key part of administrative reorganization. The response of the past legislative session to the money needs of the department and of the local governments it proposed to work for was something else again.

The legislature did appropriate funds for special vocational training programs and additional school aids for the Milwaukee inner core. But in total, the department received $4.1 million for the biennium, far short of what the governor had requested in a special message. Douglas Weiford, the Eau Claire city manager who was recruited to head the new department, subsequently gave up and resigned. The department now is headed by Charles Hill, who had been a Weiford assistant.

For the next biennium, Hill has now proposed a budget of $15.8 million. He also has proposed that the state use its new direct borrowing authority to create a $25 million revolving fund to be used to back up local loans for low income housing. An estimated 1,500 housing units could result from such financing.

About two-thirds of the department's proposed budget would be for state activities in fields which could not make the grade in the past session—state aids for urban renewal, Model Cities projects, public housing, and community improvement and planning. Included would be $3 million to match federal housing grants and to provide direct help to local sponsors, $3 million for contributions toward local anti-poverty and Model Cities programs, $1 million to enlarge programs aimed at curbing juvenile delinquency, and $1 million to pay half the local share of relocation costs for persons who have to move because of urban renewal or other construction.

It is too early to make judgment on the proposed budget, which must be placed within the total state needs and financing ability for the next two years. But one thing is certain. State government must accept a larger role in attacking urban problems and in providing the needed dollars than has been true in the past. The alternative is further growth in direct federal-city relationships with a surrender of what should be state leadership in this field.

The Legislative Mill

It sometimes takes the military a long time to change things.

Last month President Nixon signed into law a measure repealing two military requirements; that the Army buy horses and mules on the open market and that the Quartermaster General sell to enlisted men who want it 16 ounces of tobacco a month.

The Army has had little need for horses, except for ceremonial events, for more than forty years. Tobacco has been available in drug stores, groceries and other shops for much longer than that.

Some years ago a national magazine used to run a series on silly laws and ordinances which might have had relevancy in times past but were badly out of date. Undoubtedly there are a lot that remain. It isn't only God's mill that grinds exceedingly slow. Most legislatures could qualify.

The 'Democratic' Regime in Saigon

Advocates of our presence in Vietnam are fond of talking about "freedom loving people" and the "democratic" regime and constitutional government of President Thieu. The first phrase may be accurate although we imagine few Vietnamese know what it means and might well have preferred any kind of government to the horrors of the devastating war they have experienced for decades.

But Mr. Thieu's attitude toward constitutional protections and civil liberties somehow doesn't quite coincide with the American ideal.

Don Luce, a former social worker in Vietnam who resigned because of his disillusion over the American role several years ago, went back last spring as a correspondent for the Ecumenical Press Service of the World Council of Churches. But Mr. Luce was instrumental in leading a couple of visiting American congressmen to the "tiger cages," the cells in the ground at the South Vietnamese prison on Con Son. The discovery of the inhumane conditions made quite a splash in the American press and embarrassed the Saigon government. Mr. Luce's press card has been revoked and it is likely that his visa will not be renewed after its expiration in February.

Presumably a "sovereign" government should set its own rules about where foreigners may go. The United States does for Russians, for instance, but the South Vietnamese action was clearly a punishment to Mr. Luce for revealing some appalling conditions.

Earlier this year South Vietnamese Representative Tran Ngoc Chau, a member of the National Assembly for three years, was found guilty of contacting his brother, a Viet Cong intelligent agent. It seems at least reasonable to believe that Mr. Chau was trying to bring his brother around to his point of view and the United States Embassy and the Central Intelligence Agency encouraged the visits. But a military tribunal, which wasn't supposed to have jurisdiction over civilians anyway, convicted Mr. Chau and sentenced him to ten years in prison. The South Vietnamese Supreme Court ruled the prosecution unconstitutional. Mr. Chau remained in jail. Last week the Supreme Court annulled the sentence. Mr. Chau is still in jail because President Thieu says that's where he belongs.

In the course of a war civil liberties are often suspended and it has happened in the United States particularly during the Civil War, although court decisions outlawing actions taken by President Lincoln did not come until the war was over. The World War II internment of Japanese Americans still is repugnant even though the Supreme Court, in rather an astonishing decision, upheld it.

Perhaps a tough line is necessary in Vietnam—certainly it is to the maintenance of President Thieu's regime. But let's stop calling it a democratic regime and a miniature United States.

Wisconsin Report
Civil Service System
Challenged by Public
Employee Unionization

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post Crescent Madison Bureau
MADISON — The League of Municipalities convention panel discussion on public service labor problems and the dangerous uncertainty of government-labor relations was as striking for what was not said as for what was actually asserted.

The principal and most successful counselor of the labor point of view in government service, an imaginative and hard-driving lawyer who built a thriving practice out of his early recognition of the possibilities of the field, asserted flatly that public employee unions no longer have much regard for the "civil service" principle.

This was one of the proud innovations in Wisconsin government about half a century ago, signaling the end of the patronage or spoils system of public job dispensation and the inauguration of employment by merit for the benefit of the public, and job security for the benefit of the qualified public service worker.

Called Management Tool

But John Lawton declared without hesitation that his unions now regard civil service laws and ordinances as "management tools," and that they prefer to negotiate contracts with cities, counties, and even the state, for the protection of their rights, real or supposed.

That raises provocative questions that the School Boards Association put before the League mayors and others. What is negotiable in public employment labor relations? Does negotiability extend to promotions, pay raises, and related questions that are now resolved by elected public officials, responsible to the voters who put them into office, and who under ordinary civil service procedures employ such rules as promotion examinations to test qualifications, rather than the arithmetical seniority by which the union man sets such store?

Should the prison guard ultimately become warden without regard to his capacity, or should the civil service recruit the man with superior qualities, even if younger in age or in job seniority?

Face Tough Opponent

Running through the League panel discussion was the theme that the typical mayor, serving a limited stretch of duty, or the average alderman, perhaps persuaded by his neighbors to represent them on the city council for a reasonable time, is mostly unable to deal with the sophisticated reserves of talent employed by the growing public service union movement. That is obvious on its face.

Perhaps more pertinent, when it comes to larger cities or the state legislature which will soon face the dilemma, is the practical political force of public service union labor pragmatically directed, single-mindedly devoted to its narrow interests as it is, in the face of the fragmented, indifferent and often uninformed general public.

Can Exert Pressure

As Stevens Riley of Eau Claire, a man with some experience in public labor relations put it, will the alderman who lives in a ward where numerous firemen happen to vote be able or willing to stand up to their union, whatever the merits?

Some public employees tend to envy their fellows in the private sector for their supposed advantages. But they make comparisons with at least one blind eye. The employee of an entrepreneur must reckon with the possibility of losing his job through forces beyond his and the employer's control. But government, considered as a whole, probably offers as secure employment as can be found. Government is not only depression proof, but its labor market tends to expand in relation to the troubles in the private economic sector.

Public employee spokesmen assert with confidence, and almost with defiance, that the anti-strike law applying to the public services is not enforceable. They are probably right. It is no special secret that many elected magistrates will hesitate to enjoin a strike. It is common, even after injunctions, to enter into amnesty agreements.

Can Impose Penalties

At best, the sanctions must be in the form of financial penalties against labor organizations, rather than imprisonment of hundreds, even thousands of violators. But earnest and honest and generous men will shrink from the idea that the law will ever condone or permit the creation of a defenseless community through the strike of vital protective public protection workers. The strike prohibition may not be enforceable, but the idea of consciously repealing it will never be acceptable, notwithstanding.

Perhaps the most regrettable problem in this disputed field is that in spite of its obvious pressure upon the legislature, not one member in a score in that body is reasonably conversant with it, or prepared to confront it.

A Word Edgewise
Wave of Economy Could Help
Our Colleges and Universities

BY JOHN P. ROCHE
A RATIONAL LOOK AT COLLEGE BUDGETS

A while back it was suggested here that colleges and universities facing budgetary problems should begin their economy drives by cutting back on the "tail," on the incredible aggregation of academic flunkies who "teach not, neither do they research." This column was warmly greeted by a number of university administrators—the vice chancellor of one state system sent it to all his college presidents and brought some dirty looks from sundry academic entrepreneurs. The gist of my recommendation was that educational money ought to go into education rather than academic cosmetics.

Since that was written, the bad news keeps coming in. Princeton is running a deficit, Cornell is having problems, Yale has cut back on faculty appointments, and these are institutions brave enough to admit their difficulties. State legislatures also are cutting back on appropriations. In general, it's a bad year.

There is one ground for optimism: perhaps, now that the party is over, American universities will start doing a little rational planning. For 20 years I have been pushing too quite simple (and unoriginal) proposals which can serve as examples of what I mean. The first deals with research libraries.

Competition in Libraries

Obviously every college or university must have a library, but there is absolutely no reason why each one should compete with the Library of Congress. Yet, at this moment, every time an advanced monograph is published, copies are purchased by probably 10 educational institutions in the Greater Boston (or New York, or Philadelphia, or Chicago) area. The sensible thing to do is to have a central research library to which graduate students and other specialists can go if they want that particular volume. There are now superb micro-card collections — at spectacular prices — which could also go into such a central repository.

Roche

I saw one recently I would love to have for my graduate students in constitutional history, but it would practically have bankrupted the university library.

What this calls for is rational cooperation among institutions allegedly dedicated to rationality; and it would save a lot of money that currently goes into conspicuous consumption, or — put bluntly — academic egotism. But this step would be small compared to a truly revolutionary proposal: that neighboring universities seriously cooperate in the use of specialized faculty.

This immediately encounters the baronial ambitions of both individual universities and of departments within them. A history department, for example, will vigorously argue for its own man in, say, ancient history, rather than utilizing the talents of a classics professor on the same campus, let alone asking an ancient historian from a nearby school to handle the field on a part-time basis. Similarly in political science a dedicated chairman will inform the dean that he must have a Latin Americanist ... that no department is complete without one.

Bureaucratic Imperialism

There has been a good deal of talk about such cooperation (and I gather that the City University of New York has created what amounts to a graduate conglomerate) but usually the discussions falter when you get to the technicalities. If — to take a hypothetical example — a graduate student at one university writes his doctoral dissertation under the direction of a professor at the school next door (who happens to be the outstanding authority in the field), which school gets credit for the degree? And suddenly you hear an impassioned plea for the "integrity" of the degree, and observations about the lack of institutional loyalty that such arrangements generate.

It can become very moving ... not a dry eye in the house ... but it is bosh, a flimsy cover for the bureaucratic imperialism that characterizes any large organization. The rational case for an academic non-proliferation treaty is compelling on its own merits — perhaps budgetary difficulties will serve as the stimulus for undermining feudalism in our higher educational system.

Strictly Personal
Change of Seasons
Stimulates Creativity

BY SYDNEY J. HARRIS

We went up to close the summer house a few weeks ago, and the weather was so lovely that my older boy and I played tennis for several hours, to the shocking neglect of our closing-up chores.

When we walked off the court, he remarked on the difference between playing in summer and in fall. "We played twice as hard and didn't get half as tired," he observed. "It's amazing what a difference climate makes in your energy."

When we consider the great energetic achievements of mankind, we too rarely take the factor of climate into consideration, and we tend to become smug in the knowledge that the northerly nations have contributed the most to modern technology and what we loosely call "progress."

Man operates at his optimum within an extremely narrow temperature range, both internally and externally. A rise or drop of merely six degrees of internal temperature renders us incapable of action or decision; and extreme cold or heat externally keep any culture stuck in its status quo, content just to cope with its environment.

It is in the great temperate band of the globe that people have always exhibited the most vitality; and it is characteristic of our vanity that we credit our virtues, rather than our accidental circumstances of birth, for this advance into "civilization".

One set of singles exhausted us in mid-August; four sets scarcely tired us in mid-October. Nor is it merely the physical side that operates better in coolth than in warmth—recent experiments at Emory University have shown that "the brain is hypersensitive when cooled moderately. It can learn to do everything better and faster than when it is warm."

The factor of "seasonal change" is also important in stimulating the creative and productive machinery of the human organism. Only in the moderate zone do we find cyclical changes of temperature, which act to revitalize people. A "one-season" area may be more comfortable but this very comfort inhibits new efforts and responses.

It is part of our cultural chauvinism to blame semi-tropical or tropical peoples for being "lazy" and taking no heed for the morrow; but such climate induces torpor, especially when you know that tomorrow will be pretty much like today and yesterday.

By consulting these figures it will be seen that the entire Democratic ticket is elected.

While we hoped and worked to the best of our ability for a different result, yet we receive some consolation from the fact that the majorities of our opponents have been reduced to such an extent as to remind them of their latter end.

If this good work continues and the Republicans remain true to their professions, we are confident that it will be our good fortune to record a handsome victory for our ticket at the next election.

Flood Okays Senators Pact, Still Balks at Reserve Clause

NEW YORK (AP) — Cpt. Flood has agreed to play center field for the Washington Senators next season under a contract that contains the reserve clause he sat out a whole year to protest.

The decision, expected since last week when Flood indicated he would sign with the Senators, came out of a meeting here between Flood, Washington owner Bob Short and baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

An announcement released simultaneously in Philadelphia and Washington said the Senators were giving the Phillies veteran utility man Greg Gossen and rookies Gene Martin, an outfielder-first baseman, and pitcher Jeff Terpko for the acquisition of Flood's contract.

While Flood's celebrated $4.1 million anti-trust suit against baseball and the reserve clause system remains in the courts, his future on the field now seems certain for at least the 1971 baseball season.

At Washington, he joins one of baseball's other problem players, pitcher Denny McLain, another recent Short acquisition in a multi-player trade with Detroit.

Money appeared to be the main reason Flood ended his 1971 baseball season.

Flood claimed when he instituted his suit against baseball that the clause made players "slaves." A federal court judge ruled against him in New York, but he presently is appealing the decision.

Tom Fears Fired As Saints' Coach

Injuries Must Heal

Task Formidable, But Gregg Retains Hope For Packer Crown

BY LEE REMMEL

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Battle-tested Forrest Gregg, the indestructible one, has seen Packer fortunes run the gamut during his 14 National Football League seasons.

The ruggedly handsome Texan was a rookie in 1956 when the Pack settled for a 4-8 record and finished a distant 5½ games behind the Western Conference champion Chicago Bears.

Two years later, he suffered through the most dismal season in the team's largely successful history, along with Ray Nitschke, Bart Starr and Paul Hornung, among others.

He also was very much in evidence when much the same cast rebounded from that 1-10-1 record and surged to a 7-5 mark under the newly arrived Vince Lombardi in 1959.

In the next eight years, he assisted in the acquisition of five NFL titles as the Packers forged the greatest dynasty in pro football history, climaxed by successive Super Bowl triumphs in 1966 and '67.

Accurate Perspective

Eight times an all-pro during those highly successful '60s, Gregg thus is better able to put the Packers' current status in perspective than most of his colleagues.

Although he does not minimize the magnitude of the task which lies ahead the 37-year-old veteran is hardly disposed to despair over a 4-3 Central Division record at the halfway point.

"We felt if we could turn the corner at 5-2 we would have a great chance," he admits. "We then would have been only one game back, with one game still to play against each of the two leaders, Minnesota and Detroit, in the last seven."

"Now we're two games back, but we still have a chance to play the teams ahead of us. And they, in turn, have to play each other."

Pinpointing the difference in the situation following Sunday's 26-10 loss to San Francisco, he added, "But now somebody else has to beat Minnesota, besides us."

Too Many Mistakes

Gregg, who had just seen that latest venture on film for the second time, noted in this connection, "I think the players realize they didn't play that good a football game last Sunday. We made too many mistakes and we didn't capitalize on the opportunities we had to score."

He said, however, that he has detected no indication of a letdown.

"I think the attitude is good," said the former SMU star, who doubles as an assistant coach and thus is able to assess this matter from the standpoint of both players and coach.

"We have had a lot of injuries, of course, but this is no excuse — everybody has some. But if some of our people heal pretty soon, we still have a chance to be a winner this year."

"I think this is a good football team. It's a young team, with a lot of rookies and second year men in positions of great responsibility, but I think it is on the verge of becoming a real fine football team."

"And it should get better. . . provided we keep the morale up and approach the rest of the season with a proper attitude."

Anything Can Happen

Speaking from his wealth of experience, he pointed out, "You don't know what will happen in seven games. That's why you have to stay in there and win every game that you can. . . A lot can happen in seven games."

Gregg, who was forced to reconsider retirement plans when injuries decimated the offensive line, stands ready to

Roberts to Be Interim Successor

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — J. D. Roberts was in today and Tom Fears out as coach of the New Orleans Saints.

Fears, 46, was fired shortly after noon Tuesday by owner John Mecom Jr., within hours after Mecom was quoted as saying he did not "think a change right now would be in the best interests of the team."

"I was shocked," said Fears. "This is my greatest disappointment in football. I was conducting business as usual and had just finished a meeting with the team when the phone call came."

Fears had been the Saints' head coach since the team's inception four years ago. His team was 1-5-1 this season, but had compiled the best three-year record of any expansion team in pro football.

Scout for 1 Year

Roberts, 37, also has been in the Saint organization for four years. He was linebacker coach under Fears for two years, was a scout for one year and then left last year to coach the Richmond Saints of the Atlantic Coast Football League, a team affiliated with New Orleans.

Vic Schwenk, general manager for the Saints, said Roberts was named interim coach "because of his familiarity with the organization."

Schwenk said Mecom did not elevate one of Fears' present assistants because "of the possible friction it might create."

Fears, 47, who was named to Pro Football's Hall of Fame in the late summer, said after his dismissal that although the Saints' record "is not an enviable one, I can say that our players have not quit and that's a big thing."

There were reports that Mecom, son of a Texas oil millionaire, was upset over last Sunday's 30-17 loss to the Los Angeles Rams. The Saints scored touchdowns on a long pass and a fumble recovery to lead 14-0 after the first four minutes, but they couldn't hold the Rams in check in the second half.

Fears began his coaching career under the late Vince Lombardi at Green Bay in 1959, was the chief offensive coach for the Atlanta Falcons in 1966 and was named head coach of the embryonic Saints in 1967.

LU's Alwin Closing In on 2,000-Yard Career Rushing Mark

The spotlight will be on hard-charging halfback Lance Alwin, of Lawrence University as the Vikes close out the 1970 season with a pair of road games.

Saturday, Lawrence will play a non-conference game at Beloit College and then the Vikes close out the campaign Nov. 14, with a Midwest Conference game at Cornell College.

The Beloit contest is billed as a non-league affair since Beloit is using freshmen after a small turnout of varsity grid candidates at the start of the season.

The league granted Beloit permission to use the freshmen providing games did not count toward a league championship.

Alwin, a native of Fort Atkinson, needs 157 yards in his last two games by rushing to hit the 2,000-yard mark. Should the 220-pound speedster achieve the goal, he will have done it in just two seasons as a running back.

As a sophomore, Alwin was an all-conference choice at line-backer on defense.

Impressive Rate

Early in his junior year, Lance was switched to offense and has been piling up yardage at an impressive rate ever since. A candidate for little All-American team honors, Alwin has ranked in the top 10 among small college rushers throughout the season.

So far this season, Alwin has gained 886 yards in 204 tries for a 4.3 average per carry. His longest gainer was 38 yards and he has scored three touchdowns.

Pro scouts have been keeping their eye on the Lawrence halfback and head coach Ron Roberts feels he is sure to be selected in the next pro football draft.

For a career that has spanned 16 games, Alwin has carried the ball 367 times for 1,843 yards. The Lawrence offense, which has been sputtering this season, finally came into its own last weekend and rolled to a 42-0 victory over Carleton. It was

4 Frosh Compete for Vikes

MC Harriers to Run Here

For the first time in history, the Midwest Conference cross country meet will not be held at Washington Park in Chicago. The 1970 meet will be in Appleton, with Lawrence University as host.

Coach Gene Davis, of the Viking harrier team, has announced that the meet will be run at 11 a.m. Saturday, over a route laid out at the Reid Municipal Golf Course.

Conference coaches voted to bring the meet to the various conference schools, as is done in the other sports. The meet will be rotated among the 10 conference schools.

Two upperclassmen and four freshmen will represent Lawrence in the conference meet. Upperclassmen are Kent Vincent, a junior who placed 28th in last year's test and Doug Clapp, a senior who was 43rd last year.

Most Consistent
Davis figures that freshmen standout George Steed, of Neenah, should place high in the MC meet. Steed has been the most consistent of the Vike performers this fall.

Other Vike freshmen include Francis Campbell, the team's 135-262, Bob Wautlet 138-262, second leading runner this fall; Rick Erce 135-261 and Chuck Dennis Quinlan, who has shown improvement in every meet and Brian Farmer, an Appleton East graduate who has been looking good of late.

"We're aiming for a spot among the first five teams," Davis said, "but this will be tough and the boys will have to go all out against the strong competition."

Carleton College is the defending champion, but St. Olaf which finished in second place by one point, is the pick of the league coaches to take the title.

Carleton, has captain Doug Chase back.

The toughest competition for the Oles is expected to come from Carleton, Grinnell and Beloit.

Leading the St. Olaf contingent is Gary Olmstead, the conference's 3-mile track champion last spring.

Grinnell is led by Chuck McGrath, who placed third last season, and Eric Jahns, who finished seventh.

Beloit brings a perfect (7-0) mark in dual competition to the meet. In addition, the Bucs won the Rockford College Invitational and placed third in their own invitational at home. Leading the Bucs is Rick Drake who lost only once this season.

Ed Ryan, who finished second in last year's meet, returns for Monmouth.

Kathy Krueger Leads Hahn's Junior League

Kathy Krueger slammed a 533 series, which included games of 189 and 200, to lead the girls in the Hahn's Junior Bowling League.

For the junior boys, John Lutz had 174-494, Dan Dubitz bit 182-492 and Bill Heeter 182-499.

Julia Aske had 136 and a 2-game series of 259 and Kelly Keefe had 143 and 252 for the Bantam Girls. The Bantam boys were led by Rob Schmidt with 135-262, Bob Wautlet 138-262, Rick Erce 135-261 and Chuck Hietpas 129-250.

BY LEE REMMEL

By any standards, Freddie Alton Carr is a slightly phenomenal athlete.

Yet, with the premium on experience in professional football, the agile Arizonan spent the bulk of his first two seasons in a spectator's role.

Because of the depth at his college position, linebacker, and because of his awesome assets, he found himself first tested where the Packers had greater need — tight end, in his rookie season, and defensive end, a year ago.

With the departure of Lee Roy Caffey for the Bears via the trade route, Freddie inherited the big Texan's right linebacker assignment and, he is quick to admit, he couldn't be happier.

Carr, who can move his 6 feet, 5 inches and 238 pounds with 4.6 velocity in the 40-yard dash, is convinced he has found a home.

Pleased With Role
"I think linebacker is my best position," he says. "That's what I played in college and I feel real comfortable there."

"I'd have played anywhere, though," Freddie added with simple sincerity, "just to play."

Carr is particularly pleased with his role in the Packer defense, which has been tailored for him by Coach Phil Bengtson, widely recognized as a defensive genius, and secondary coach Dick Evans.

"Jim Carter, the other outside linebacker right now, always goes to the strong side with the tight end. I've been going to the weak side, which always puts me on the half-back."

"This gives me a lot of freedom. It gives me a chance to play the ball and sometimes relieve some of the pressure. Sometimes it puts me on a back, man-to-man, sometimes I can help out on double coverage, sometimes it lets me blitz."

"It's beautiful," the former Texas-El Paso luminary enthused. "I kind of like to be on the run."

Technically, he noted, "my assignment has a tendency to change from week to week, sometimes even during a game. You expect the other team to come out in certain formations and if they're in something you haven't seen, you have to be ready for it."

Credit to Robinson
Carr, whose presence already is making opponents reluctant to maneuver in his direction, credits much of his development to a fellow linebacker.

"Dave Robinson isn't playing now but he's right there every day helping me," Freddie said. "He even spends extra time studying with me, studying films. He's teaching me some of the techniques that made him a good linebacker. So far, it's been paying off."

"I don't feel I should have another bad game this year. I should start producing at the position."

"Wilbe Wood, our captain, also has helped me a lot. He gives me a lot of advice. And if I use Coach Phil's coaching to the fullest extent, I'm sure I can be better than an average ball player. I consider him one of the best. He counsels me quite a bit."

Assessing his performance to date, Freddie confided, "I don't think I've had any very exceptional game, but I've felt good. You usually can tell by the way you hit whether you've had a good day. If I feel I've hit somebody when I come off the field, I feel I've had an average day."

All-Pro Prospect
"As I say, I haven't had a great day yet," he smiled, adding with a faintly apologetic smile, "Maybe I could have had a great day against Atlanta — the day I dropped four passes."

Wood is confident that all-pro stature is imminent for Carr. "Freddie has tremendous speed and size," he says. "I've never seen another linebacker with his range."

Pondering the possibility, Carr fondly observed, "This is a very exciting goal. The way the players talk about it, it must be great to be all-pro."

"I hope that some day I'll get that kind of recognition... But I'm not rushing anything. If I just keep working, it'll happen one of these days. I don't have any idea of falling down at any time."

Led Win Over Lions

Cuozzo Named NFL's Top Offensive Player

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Want to get Minnesota Vikings' Coach Bud Grant steamed up?

Ask him about his quarterback, Gary Cuozzo.

"I wish people would quit asking us if we are surprised how Gary is doing," said Grant. "We are not at all surprised by his play."

Similar questions came flowing in after Cuozzo passed for 253 yards and two touchdowns Sunday as the Vikings defeated the Detroit Lions 30-17 and took sole grasp of first place in the Central Division of the National Football Conference.

The performance earned Cuozzo the award as The Associated Press Offensive Player of the Week.

Cuozzo, at one point against the Lions, crossed up his own teammates and the Lions with a 15-yard gain around end without any blocking.

Boivin Retires After Playing 1,150 NHL Tilts

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL (AP) — Leo Boivin, Minnesota North Stars' defenseman who appeared in 1,150 National Hockey League regular season games, announced his retirement Tuesday.

Boivin, 38, will join the North Stars as a scout said General Manager Wren Blair.

Boivin played for Toronto, Boston, Detroit, Pittsburgh and the North Stars in the NHL since 1952. The chunky defenseman scored 72 regular-season goals and three playoff goals in 54 games. He stands 10th in games played among all NHL performers.

Rush Says He Has Resigned Boston Post

ceive full compensation during his leave.

Rush, asked how his resignation announcement would affect his contract, told reporters: "Pride is worth something."

He said he would spend the next few days cleaning out his office at the club's training quarters at Curry College in nearby Milton, then "go fishing."

He left a message with a secretary to answer future calls. The message read: "It is not true that Coach Rush has taken a leave of absence. He has resigned. It's an inaccurate release..."

Sullivan said that despite Rush's statement, the team's position remains the same and the offer of an indefinite leave with full compensation "still stands—absolutely."

Under Ewbank

Rush came to the Patriots after serving as Weeb Ewbank's offensive coach with the New York Jets for several years and helping them to the Super Bowl championship at the end of the 1968 season. His first Patriots team last year lost its first seven games but came on to finish with a 4-10 record. This year the club is 1-6 to date.

Was Grant surprised?

"I wouldn't be surprised if Gary kicked a field goal," Grant said.

The Vikings, under Cuozzo, have won six of their seven games to support the quarterback's theory after Joe Kapp became a holdout and was traded to the Boston Patriots.

"I can win with the Vikings," said Cuozzo, who was considered a more refined playmaker than Kapp. But there were those who wondered about Cuozzo's leadership ability.

"Winning is everything," says Cuozzo. "Whatever it takes, I'm willing to do. Sure, it would be nice to have the statistics but sometimes it's hard to tie the two together. It's sure better to win."

Cuozzo, in his first season as a No. 1 quarterback, has completed 88 of 167 passing attempts—a nifty 52.8 per cent—for 1,149 yards and six touchdowns.

Cuozzo came to the Vikings from the New Orleans Saints, where he was a part-time starter in 1967. Before that he was the understudy to John Unitas at Baltimore for four seasons.

Gibson Wins Young Award 2nd Time

By HAL BOCK
NEW YORK (AP) — The Cy Young Award voted to Bob Gibson Tuesday won't add a penny to his 1971 salary. That's because the flame-throwing St. Louis right-hander has already agreed to a $150,000 contract—probably a record major league salary. Gibson became the third man in history to win the Young Award as the top pitcher in his league more than once since its inception in 1956. Denny McLain and Sandy Koufax were the other repeaters. Gibson, 23-7 for the Cardinals after winning only two games in the first six weeks of the 1970 season, received 23 of the 24 first place votes in balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America. The other first place ballot went to San Francisco's Gaylord Perry, who finished second to Gibson in the voting. Gibson, the only hurler named on all 24 ballots, totaled 118 points. Perry finished with 51 and Ferguson Jenkins of the Chicago Cubs had 16. Gibson's slow start—he was 2-5 in late May—stirred whisperers that the Cardinal ace might be on the way down. But he wiped them out with strings of 10 and seven consecutive victories and went over the 20-victory mark for the third straight year. "I was as strong in 1970 as I was two years ago when I won the award," said Gibson, who celebrates his 35th birthday on Monday. "I had no arm trouble."

Bob Gibson

but I get more tired every year. The older you get, the harder it is."

Gibson as one of the few bright spots for the Cardinals, who finished fourth in the National League's East Division.

In all, 10 pitchers received mention from the 24 voters—two in each NL city. Reliever Dave Giusti of Pittsburgh and Jim Merritt, Cincinnati's 20-game winner, tied for fourth place with eight points and then came Cincinnati's Gary Nolan (5), Tom Seaver of the New York Mets, the 1969 winner, (4), Cincinnati reliever Wayne Granger (3), Carl Morton of Montreal (2), and Luke Walker of Pittsburgh (1).

Gibson won his first Cy Young Award in 1968 when McLain took the AL award. McLain shared the 1969 AL award with prompting a change in the voting procedure. This year, three pitchers were named on each ballot with first place worth five points, second place three points and third place one.

3-Time Winner
Koufax is the only three-time winner in the history of the Cy Young Award, having won in 1963, 1965 and 1966.

Gibson, always a workhorse, started 34 games and pitched 294 innings for the Cards last season. He struck out 274 batters, walked 88 and compiled a 3.12 earned run average in going over the 20-win mark for the fifth time in his 11-year career.

His 23 victories last season marked Gibson's single season high. He has a career record of 190-117 with an ERA under 3.00 and a 7-2 World Series log.

The American League Cy Young winner will be named later this week.

Prairie Chickens on Increase, But Don't Get Out Your Gun Yet

By GEORGE ROGERS
Stevens Point Journal

STEVENS POINT (AP) — There's an upswing in Wisconsin's prairie chicken population, but don't plan a hunting trip just yet.

In fact, don't plan one at all. Barring some drastic and altogether unforeseen change in land use patterns, there'll never be another prairie chicken season in this state.

Hunters used to take the big grouse home by the wagonload, but the disappearance of grassland did the bird in over most of its old range. It hasn't been hunted legally in Wisconsin for 20 years.

Illegally? Well, that's something else. Several hunters were nabbed in the Mead Wildlife Area this fall for shooting the protected chickens. Possibly it was mistaken identity. On the other hand, they were supposed to be hunting ducks.

Biggest Population
The biggest prairie chicken population in Wisconsin is on the Buena Vista Marsh in Portage County and the neighboring Leola Marsh in Waushara County. Even there, it's taken some pretty frantic efforts to stave off extinction.

Through most of the 1960s the population was static at best. But this fall, dog handlers holding field trials on the Buena Vista Marsh flushed three times as many birds as last year.

John Berkahn, in charge of chicken management on the marsh for the Department of Natural Resources (DNR), says part of the increase is due to a good winter carryover, but mostly it's because of a big spring hatch.

And this may be due to good nesting weather, habitat improvement or the fact that it's getting close to 1971. (There's an old theory, not sneered at by all wildlife scientists, that cyclical game populations reach a peak in years ending in "1".)
But if it hadn't been for people buying habitat, there wouldn't be enough prairie chickens left to be affected by the cycle.

EAST CENTRAL CONFERENCE
Berlin	7	0	175	43
Omro	6	1	148	41
Ripon	4	3	132	56
New London	3	3	124	62
Hortonville	3	4	74	109
Winneconne	2	4	74	134
Wauwage	2	4	74	134
Weyauwega	0	7	14	176

Berlin not only walked off with the East Central Conference's league championship but dominated team and individual performances.

Omro, which placed a close second, also ranked high in the performance charts as did third-place Ripon. New London's Bulldogs turned in impressive performances on defense.

Berlin racked the opposition for 198 points and allowed 43. Omro ranked second in points with 168 but their opponents managed just 41.

Larry Hollmaier, the Berlin flash, tallied 104 points on 17 touchdowns and one PAT run and led the league in rushing with a whopping 1,224 yards in 165 carries.

Stellar Performer
With such a stellar performer it figured that the Indians would have the most potent offense. Berlin gained 2,075 yards rushing and another 307 via the air for a leading 2,382 yards and 340.3 average.

Ripon also had outstanding offensive credentials with 814.6 yards per outing and Omro ranked third with 281.6. Wauwage's 155.9 was fourth best.

Defensively it was Omro all the way. The Foxes yielded only 126.7 per game and led both the passing and rushing defensive statistics. Opposing teams picked up just 369 yards rushing and 318 passing.

Berlin ranked second in defense with 611 yards allowed on the ground and 427 passing for a 148.3 game average. New London rated third with 746 rushing and 460 passing, for 172.3 per game.

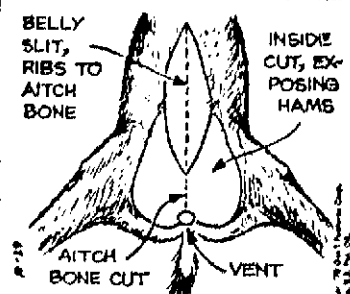

Shown Balance
Actually the East Central showed more balance in the won-lost column than would be indicated in the statistics. Berlin posted a 7-0 mark, and Omro was second with a 6-1 slate. Weyauwega was the sole winless team.

All other teams were grouped together with records ranging from 4-3 to 2-5. None was particularly overpowering, nor an easy mark. An outstanding individual on any of the five might have made that club a contender.

New London coach Jack Wohl said, "We were a very fine balanced league. I couldn't say we had the outstanding stars of the Mid-Eastern (their former Sports Car Bowling League, league) Conference except for Peter Kolosso's 165 game took Hollmaier, he just overshadowed everyone."

Dennis Moon ranked a distant unbeaten team.

EASY SPLITTING OF DEER'S AITCH BONE
AFTER CUTTING AROUND VENT AND TYPING OFF INTESTINES, THEN SLITTING BELLY, COMES CUTTING THE AITCH BONE TO REMOVE ENTRAILS. MOST HUNTERS HACK AT THE BONE UNTIL IT IS CHOPPED THROUGH. THERE'S AN EASIER, NEATER WAY TO CUT THIS BONE:
WHEN CUTTING THE CROTCH TO EXPOSE HAM, DOWN TO AITCH BONE, TRY TO CUT THROUGH AT THE EXACT CENTER. THEN PROBE WITH KNIFE POINT TO FIND TINY RIDGE—JOINT OF BONE. CAREFULLY INSERT POINT IN RIDGE AT THE RIGHT SPOT; A PENKNIFE WILL DO IT.

Bengals Waive Kenny Graham

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals of the American Football Conference announced Tuesday that safety Kenny Graham had been placed on waivers.

Graham, a seven-year veteran, was obtained this past summer from the San Diego Chargers for an undisclosed draft choice. He had recently returned to action after an ankle injury sidelined him for three games.

Meixl Wins FVA Honor

Included six freshmen, three of whom were regulars.

A native of Oshkosh, Meixl played for Harold Schumacher, earning two football letters and one in basketball. He attended college at La Crosse.

Meixl's first area coaching assignment was at Freedom High School where he directed the Irish to their first Little Nine Conference football crown. He also coached basketball and track.

Moving to New London in 1958, he was head basketball and track coach and assistant in football. His jayvees were 10-2-1.

The Rocket mentor came to Neenah in the fall of 1961 as a teacher at Horace Mann Junior High.

In his tenure here, he also has coached track, cross country and Junior varsity basketball.

His five Rocket football teams have chalked up a nifty 31-8-1 record, including two Mid-Eastern Conference crowns and the initial FVA bunting. He was 7-1 and 3-5 in two years in the Fox River Valley Conference.

Meixl's 1966 and 1967 track teams won Mid-Eastern Conference crowns and his '67 unit placed second to Manitowish in the state Class A meet.

He is married to the former Cathy Van Gorp of Appleton and they have six children, including a son, Joe, who earned a letter on the Rocket team as a sophomore defensive back this fall.

Esposito's 19 Points Beats Record Pace

NEW YORK (AP) — Phil Esposito is ahead of his scoring pace and could be on his way to another record season in the National Hockey League.

Esposito, Boston's stylish center, leads all NHL scorers with 19 points in nine games, including a league-leading 12 assists. "This is the best start of his career and in 1968-69, when he set the single season record of 126 points, Esposito had only eight points—four goals and four assists—Jin the first nine games."

Ed Giacomin and Gilles Villeneuve, sharing New York's goal-tending, sport a 1.90 goals against average—best in the league.

"I feel great," he says, noting, "I got over that hip bruise I had for a couple of weeks." Although he has seen service primarily at right tackle this season, he made an extended appearance at left guard against the 49ers when Bill Lueck had to exit because of a hip pointer.

The shift required a substantial adjustment, he admitted. "Difficult Switch

Former Packer In Line as Next Oilers' Coach

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Houston Oiler defensive secondary coach Walt Schlinkman will take over as head coach of the Oilers at the end of the season, a source close to the Oilers said Monday.

The source, who declined to be identified, told Houston Station KQUE that the official announcement would be made at the close of the season. "We feel Schlinkman will install an exciting professional offense that will have appeal for fans and win," the source said in an interview with KQUE.

Schlinkman could not be reached immediately for comment. Schlinkman was one of the all-time great runners for the Green Bay Packers from 1948-50. He has been with the Oilers since their inception in 1960.

Pistons Notch 10th Win in 11 Outings

The Detroit Pistons certainly lead the early balloting as the National Basketball Association's most improved and surprising team. They probably got Cincinnati's vote Tuesday night.

The Pistons, after a last place finish in 1969-70, came from behind to beat the Royals 115-112 and gather their 10th victory in 11 starts this season.

Two of the reasons for the improvement are No. 1 draft choice Bob Lanier and second year man Steve Mix, who each sank three free throws for the Pistons' last six points.

In other NBA games, Chicago beat Seattle 113-101 in Chicago.

Los Angeles defeated host Portland 128-108.

In the only American Basketball Association contest, Memphis edged Texas 116-114 at Memphis Tenn.

Detroit trailed by seven points in the third quarter before pulling ahead 86-81 in the fourth. The Royals tied it at 105, 107 and finally at 109 before Lanier and Mix each hit a free toss for never caught up as the pair added two more free throws apiece.

Dave Bing led the Pistons with 31 points, while Flynn Robinson had 23 for the Royals, who at 3-7 have been almost as bad as the Pistons have been good.

Reserve center Jim Fox and Chet Walker each scored 18 points in the final quarter to rally Chicago past Seattle. The Bulls blew a 62-47 halftime lead when Seattle scored 13 straight points.

Curtis Gains NFL Honor

Middle Linebacker Was Standout in Win Over Dolphins

NEW YORK (AP) — Baltimore's brute force defensive unit hasn't yielded a touchdown in two games, but Mike Curtis still sees room for improvement.

Curtis, the Colts' rugged middle linebacker, intercepted two passes and had a hand in 15 tackles last Sunday as the American Football Conference's Eastern Division leaders swamped Miami 35-0.

Then he took a look at the game statistics—and almost blew his top.

"They got 201 rushing yards," Curtis growled. "That's terrible. Things like that should never happen. We'll have to do better than that."

It would be difficult to improve on Curtis' individual performance against the Dolphins, however. Today, the 28-year-old musclemann was singled out by The Associated Press as the Defensive Player of the Week in the National Football League.

Curtis, who says he plays football "because it's the only place you can hit people and get away with it," made six solo tackles and assisted on nine more as the Colts shut off Miami's Bob Griese-Paul Warfield long-ball game and limited the Dolphins to one penetration inside the 40-yard line.

The 232-pound middle man picked off a Griese pass late in the second quarter and rumbled 10 yards to set up the Colts' second touchdown. He intercepted John Stofa in the final quarter and ran 18 yards to the Dolphins' 10, and the Colts quickly cashed in for another score.

Carl Rohloff Has 620 Denny Laux Cracks 641 Tri-City Set

Denny Laux rolled a 256 game and posted a 641 series for the best performance in the Tri-City Men's League at Sabre Lanes Tuesday night.

Laux strung together strings of five and three strikes during his big game.

Norm Schimmelpfennig rapped a 607 total, and Bob Gross hit 579.

In the Universal League at 41 Bowl, Carl Rohloff led the way with a 228-620 combination. Dick Wichman followed with 581, and Leo Whitcomb came in with 235-575. Norm Grow slammed a 235 top line.

Tim Greiner's 614 series headed scores in the Tuesday night edition of the Businessmen's League at Colonial Lanes. Claytie School was runnerup with 233-600.

Short Burst

Seattle held a 97-95 lead with 4:14 left but Walker hit three free throws and Fox a basket and a free throw for a 101-97 lead the Bulls never lost. Walker finished with 30 points.

Led by Wilt Chamberlain, who had 23 points, 15 rebounds and blocked nine shots, Los Angeles broke open a close game with a 10-point spurt in the second quarter against Portland. Jim Barnett and Shaler Halimon each had 18 points to top the Blazers.

Sullivan Tops Colleges in Total Offense

Plunkett Drops to 2nd; Marinaro Is Rushing Leader

NEW YORK (AP) — Auburn's Pat Sullivan is the new national leader for total offense in major college football and could set a record of 9.0 yards per play if he keeps going.

Sullivan is setting the pace with 274.4 rushing-passing yards per game, according to the weekly statistics Tuesday by the National Collegiate Sports Services. He has gained 1921 yards on 215 plays in seven games.

This is at a clip of 8.9 yards per play and no major collegian with his yardage has ever averaged as high over a full season. Notre Dame's John Huarte set the record of 8.5 for those with at least 2,000 yards in 1964.

Glenn Davis, famed Army halfback of 25 years ago, averaged 11.7 yards for 1,197 in 1945, but this was for those under 1,200 yards.

Sullivan, a 6-foot junior, ousted Stanford's Jim Plunkett from the lead by piling up 384 passing-rushing yards against Florida last Saturday. Plunkett now is second with a 269.5 rushing-passing yardage average.

Ed Marinaro of Cornell regained the No. 1 spot in rushing with 127 yards against Columbia. He has a total of 16.2 yards to 154.6 for second place Gary Kosins of Dayton.

Lucey Wins Governorship; Proxmire Sails to Victory

71 Per Cent Of Vote For Senator

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democrat William Proxmire dealt Republicans their most crushing senatorial defeat in Wisconsin political history Tuesday, winning re-election to the U.S. Senate with 71 per cent of the vote.

The busy critic of wasteful military spending defeated former basketball coach John Erickson, a political newcomer whom Gov. Warren P. Knowles and other GOP leaders had chosen over a number of party regulars as Proxmire's challenger.

Proxmire, whom Erickson had accused of a "do - nothing attitude" toward Nixon administration programs, called his victory "the clearest kind of mandate to challenge every big expenditure that comes before the Senate."

The answer to inflation, he said, is "to slash federal spending, especially military spending. The people of Wisconsin have shouted their answer loud and clear."

Unofficial Tally

With all but 98 of the state's 3,314 precincts unofficially tabulated, Proxmire led 948,106-380,080.

Proxmire's victory, in a non-presidential election year, was even more impressive than the 1968 presidential-year re-election of Democratic Sen. Gaylord Nelson. In that race, Nelson had 62 per cent of the vote in beating State Sen. Jerris Leonard, later chosen by the Nixon administration to head the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division.

It was Proxmire's seventh election bid at the state level. He lost three campaigns for governor until elected in a special election in 1957 to fill the chair vacated by the Death of Sen. Joseph McCarthy, R-Wis. He was re-elected in 1958 and 1964.

Starr Rejection

Bart Starr, ace quarterback with the National Football League's Green Bay Packers, rejected GOP offers to face Proxmire. The state GOP convention in May turned to Erickson, a University of Wisconsin basketball coach who had become general manager of Milwaukee.

It's a Long Road to Madison

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — Pat Lucey is the classic example of the late bloomer in Wisconsin politics.

For more than two decades he has nursed and scarcely concealed an ambition and determination to rise, meanwhile serving as faithful planner, minister and strategist in the careers of friends who rose to high public places, some of them junior in age, experience and performance in Democratic party service.

Lucey was involved in all of the strategic advances of his party since it roused itself from its moribund status in 1948. He was an ally of the men who personified its most significant triumphs since it inherited the ruins of the demoralized LaFollette Progressive movement, discredited and finally destroyed in 1946.

He was there as one of the principal movers when the Democrats laid the foundations of their new party at Green Bay in 1948 — the equivalent in state politics of the formation of the infant Republican party by disgruntled Whigs, Free-soilers and Pro-Union Democrats in Ripon nearly a century earlier.

There were years of discouragement after he came to the legislature in 1948, in a period that spawned more promising young politicians than any other legislature in decades.

He made a sacrificial run for congressman in the historically Republican southwestern Wisconsin region.

In the 1950s he developed a successful realty business, helped some of his contemporaries to start their careers in politics, and was persuaded to take over the chairmanship of the state party machine in defiance of the maxim that the job was a deadend for the ambitious politician. Gaylord Nelson was abruptly promoted from an obscure state senate seat to the governorship.

A man named William Proxmire, a new migrant to the state, was catapulted into the U.S. Senate. Younger men went to seats in congress or became attorney general and won stepping stones to the governorship, including his good friend John W. Reynolds of Green Bay.

Then Lucey met a young Bostonian who taught him the most valuable lesson of his life. He joined the Wisconsin drive of John Kennedy for the presidency soon after its birthing. He became an insider of the famous Kennedy organization. All the while he was learning the science of politics, the detailed planning, the fine points of organization, the importance of ample financing, the value of a tight group of dedicated loyalists.

Most of all he learned patience.

In 1964 he won his first important statewide notice with election to the lieutenant governorship. No matter that his minor triumph was traceable to the ebb tide of Republican fortunes in that Goldwater year. He had a forum. He used it, tirelessly, with deliberate planning.

In 1966 he had his chance for the governorship, made a respectable run, but lost. Friends and enemies tend to forget the percentage points, but Lucey did not. He ran well against a popular and skilled Gov. Warren Knowles, basking in his political honeymoon. Lucey remembered the margin. He had won 46 per cent of the vote against Knowles with the handicap of a divided Democratic organization.

The next four years were spent in healing divisions, and building a stronger personal organization, and wooing enemies at some price in personal pride and humiliation, especially in his home district of Madison. In the celebrated words of the late Thomas E. Coleman, the most successful Wisconsin Republican party organization chief of this century, all the little blocks were in place when the 1970 calendar opened.

First 4-Year Term Goes To Democrat

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Democrat Patrick J. Lucey, master political strategist and former adviser to the Kennedys, won Wisconsin's first four-year term as governor in Tuesday's election.

Lucey, who engineered the resurgence of the Democratic Party in the state in the late 1950s, carried 40 counties over Lt. Gov. Jack Olson, the veteran picked by the Republicans to carry their standard when popular Gov. Warren P. Knowles decided not to seek a fourth term.

Lucey rolled up a whopping 86,000 vote plurality in Milwaukee County, and his margin out-state was enough to capture the governor's chair. He took the office by more than 120,000 votes.

Unofficial returns, with 3,196 of 3,314 precincts reporting showed these totals:

Lucey	716,650
Olson	592,096
American Party candidate
Leo J. McDonald received	9,066

Electe das Pair
This was the first time in Wisconsin that the governor and lieutenant governor were elected as a pair. Lucey's running mate and the lieutenant governor-elect is State Sen. Martin Schreiber, who though only 31 is a veteran of eight years in the legislature.

Lucey, a 52-year-old Madison real estate operator had held only one statewide elective office previously, that of lieutenant governor. He won that office in 1964, defeating the same opponent then as he did Tuesday.

Olson's running mate was State Rep. David O. Martin of Neenah.

The Democratic triumph pushed Republican State Treasurer Harold Clemens out of office and replaced him with Charles P. Smith, a 44-year-old production supervisor for a Madison chemical firm. Smith was defeated in the treasurer's race in 1968. Clemens, a former assemblyman, was appointed to the post two years ago.

Two Republicans held their state offices.

Democrats Capture Assembly

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Wisconsin Democrats captured overwhelming control of the State Assembly Tuesday by winning 67 of 100 seats, thus assuring a monial in Green Bay, calling for the 1971 Legislature.

The 67 seats topped the previous all-time high of 59, scored by state Democrats during the Franklin D. Roosevelt landslide of 1932.

The GOP had held a three-seat margin in the Assembly during the last session. Democrats also picked up strength in the Senate, which has been dominated by the Reg-olitics for years.

Committee Chairmen
Several Assembly committee chairmen were among the 15 Republicans who lost re-election bids as Democrats regained control of the lower chamber for the first time since the 1964 elections.

The committee chairmen included Reps. Robert Uehling of Madison, taxation; Norbert Nuttelman of West Salem, agriculture; Lawrence Johnson of Algoma, education; and Elmer Nitschke of Beaver Dam, transportation.

Republicans were keenly disappointed over the legislative losses, primarily because the next session will deal with such politically volatile matters as congressional and legislative re-appointment, and taxation.

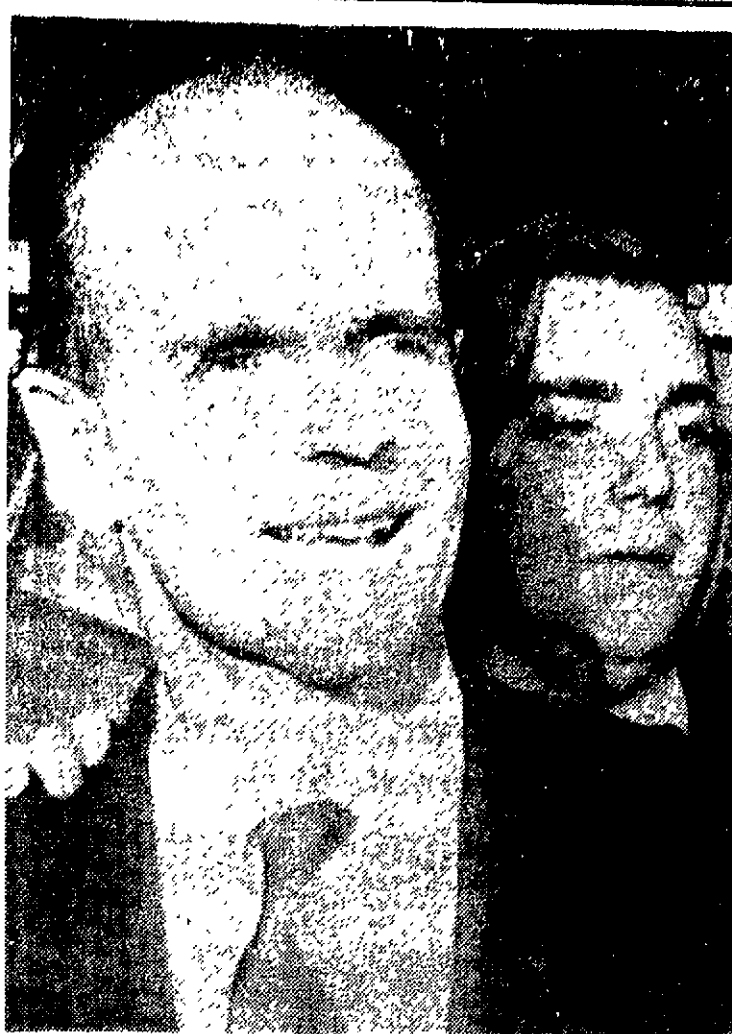

The GOP held a 50-47 margin in the Assembly at the end of the 1969 session and a 21-11 advantage in the Senate. There were two vacancies and an independent in the Assembly, and one vacancy in the Senate.

Independent

Losing Incumbents
Besides the committee chairmen who met defeat, other Republicans denied in their re-election bids included: Reps. Willis Hutnik of Ladysmith, James Tammis of Milwaukee, Wesley Packard of Lodi, Russell Weisensel of Sun Prairie, Ervin Schneeborg of Brown Deer, Carolyn Blanchard Allen of Evansville, George Belting of Beloit, Robert Boche of Star Prairie, John Parkin of Marshfield and Harvey Gee of Wisconsin Rapids.

In addition, incumbent Republican Donald Helgeson of Manitowoc County's first district won

By H. L. SCHWARTZ III

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republicans increased their strength and President Nixon gained a little ideological leverage in the Senate, but Democrats kept control in Tuesday's election.

Defying off-year election history, Republicans were assured a minimum net gain of three seats in the chamber of Congress that has been Nixon's most implacable foe. The Democratic majority had been 57 to 43.

A most important Republican victor came in Tennessee, where Albert Gore was vanquished, fulfilling a major administration ambition. Vice president Spiro T. Agnew said Gore was the GOP's No. 1 target.

Republicans also won in Connecticut, Maryland, and Ohio while Rep. Richard Roudebush was locked in a tight fight with Democratic incumbent Vance Hartke in Indiana.

Stevenson in Illinois

The GOP suffered losses in Illinois, where Adlai Stevenson III dropped incumbent Sen. Ralph T. Smith, and California where former song and dance man Sen. George Murphy lost to John V. Tunney.

Conservative James Buckley won New York's turbulent three-way contest, scoring a solid ideological gain for the White House in national security and defense matters. Liberal incumbent Charles Goodell, read out of the party by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, ran a poor third behind Democrat Rep. Richard Ottinger.

Buckley has said he will vote with Republicans in organizing the Senate, but Harry F. Byrd Jr., a former Democrat who was re-elected as an independent to a second term, is expected to vote with the Democrats.

Although Republican George Bush lost in Texas, conservative Democrat Lloyd M. Bentsen Jr. will replace the liberal Democrat he defeated in the primary. Sen. Ralph Yarborough.

Short of Predictions

The Senate result fell short of predictions by Vice President Spiro T. Agnew who carried the White House banner in a rock 'em sock 'em law-and-order campaign estimated by some to have cost both parties $65 million nationwide.

But the Republican gain broke a tradition that has seen the party in power lose an average of four Senate seats in every off-year election since 1914.

Agnew, who had predicted a four-to-six-seat gain, said the results would give the President a "working majority" in the chamber that thwarted him in two on Supreme Court nominations, fought him on Vietnam and nearly denied him an anti-missile defense system.

By a working majority, the vice president said in an appearance at Republican campaign headquarters, "I mean people who will vote for the United States and not vote against the interests of the country."

Familiar Face

Among the Senate class of 1970 will be a familiar face—that of Hubert H. Humphrey. Minnesota voters overwhelmingly returned him to the Senate where he served 16 years before becoming vice president in 1965 and Richard Nixon's victim in the 1968 presidential race.

Humphrey's election gives him a platform should he seek to challenge Nixon again in 1972.

At the same time, voters in Massachusetts and Maine kept alive the presidential potential of Edward M. Kennedy and Edmund S. Muskie by returning them to the Senate by large margins.

Gore, the 62-year-old white-thatched orator who was second ranking Democrat on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was defeated by three-term

Obeys, Steiger Re-elected

Byrnes Fights Tough Challenge to Retain Seat

Incumbents won new terms in the House of Representatives from voters in three northeastern and northcentral Wisconsin congressional districts Tuesday, but the veteran of longest tenure fought off the toughest challenge.

Rep. John W. Byrnes, R-Green Bay, won his 14th term in the House of Representatives by a 56 per cent margin over the Rev. Robert Cornell, 51, Democratic priest from the St. Norbert College history faculty.

While the margin is respectable, it is the narrowest the 57-year-old Byrnes has experienced in many of his 14 congressional campaigns. He won by 2-1 in 1968, and collected nearly 60 per cent of the 1966 vote.

In the neighboring Seventh District to the west, 32-year-old Rep. David Obeys, D-Wausau, won his first full term in congress over Republican challenger Andre LeTendre by a wide, 2-1 margin.

Former Laird Spot

The victory consolidates the Democratic hold on the district formerly served by Republican Defense Secretary Melvin Laird. LeTendre said of Obeys during the campaign, "If he wins this election, I think he's in as long as he wants to be."

LeTendre lost despite a strong personal endorsement from President Nixon and a broad hint of support from Laird.

The Republican challenger tied himself tightly to the Nixon policies, while Obeys attacked them, particularly in the areas of economics and spending priorities.

Obeys, who has been the youngest member of the House, won the seat in a special election 18 months ago after Laird was appointed defense chief.

Steiger Retained

Another of the nation's more youthful congressmen, Rep. William A. Steiger, R-Oshkosh, won a third term by defeating Democrat Franklin Utech, 40, Oshkosh State University art professor, by a 57,000 vote margin. Steiger, 32, is five months older than Obeys.

The Steiger-Utech race in the Sixth District also followed national issues, with Steiger defending and Utech attacking.

The Eighth District race was one of three across the nation in which a Catholic priest challenged an incumbent.

Father Cornell rolled up 60,345 votes to Byrnes' 76,912, based on virtually complete unofficial returns. (The Associated Press gave slightly lower figures for each candidate, with a handful of precincts unlisted.)

Neither Byrnes nor Cornell made the challenger's clerical background an issue in the heavily Catholic district. Byrnes, himself a Catholic, refused to comment on "the occupation or vocation of my opponent."

Clerical Garb

Cornell wore his clerical garb while campaigning, but insisted he was not "a priest-candidate."

He said he decided to wear his collar to avoid being accused of "trying to hide something."

Byrnes followed the political deal with the underlying causes, rule book which says the incumbent ignores the existence of poverty, ignorance and disease, of his challenger. He based his defense on staunch support of Nixon policies, while his price guidelines to curb inflation and unemployment. The priest, who also served as chairman of the Eighth District Democratic Party before becoming a candidate, rolled up his respectable share of the vote in a campaign that some supporters said should have been more vigorous.

Upset Pattern

Only one Wisconsin congressional district upset the pattern of incumbents reclaiming their seats.

Economics professor Leslie Aspin won a resounding victory over a veteran Republican incumbent Tuesday in a congressional election battle that had been dominated by the nation's economic situation.

Aspin's unexpectedly huge defeat of Rep. Henry C. Schadeberg, R-Wis., marked the state's first gubernatorial election since 1964.

You Could Celebrate or You Could Cry

BY BILL KNUTSON
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

An election party is a cry of joy and a moan of despair. It is handshakes and condolences. It is talk of better things to come and of memories.

An election party is young people sipping Coke and discussing liberals and conservatives and Cambodia and Kent. It is older people drinking Adler Brau and telling dirty jokes and dealing cards.

What happens at an election party usually depends on who's getting the most or the least votes.

Usually. But not always. There was an election party Tuesday night at Lawrence University's Memorial Union. It was one of those rare election parties where not everyone in attendance was either overjoyed or grief stricken.

"Cornell's Winning!"

A dollar got you a spot on a sofa or square footage on the floor in front of six television sets tuned to the three networks. The dollar got you doughnuts, sweet rolls and pop and a chance at predicting winners in 30 national races. The payoff was whatever was left over after paying for the pop, doughnuts, sweet rolls and tickets.

A girl in the Union knitted. A girl and a guy look off their shoes and stockings. A girl unfolded her lawn chair. Someone with a beard and wearing a black, western-style hat and side zipper boot leaped to his feet and yelled, "Yahoo, Cornell's winning."

There was an uneasy rumble when a television newscaster announced that James Buckley, brother of conservative columnist William F. Buckley, had a slight edge in New York senatorial voting.

"We're not so much Democrat or Republican," John Yunker, a junior economics major, who organized the party, said of his fellow Lawrence students. "We're more issue oriented. With us it's more a matter of liberal or conservative."

The Outagamie County Democratic party had no official gathering place Tuesday night. There were two ways of looking at it, said Lawrence Longley, county party chairman. Depending on the outcome, you could easily celebrate openly or you could have your cry in the privacy of your home.

Longley, a Lawrence University professor, spent the night with students and other faculty members in the Union.

The Republicans had a gathering place — at the VFW Club in Appleton.

Starts Slowly

Their party started slowly, attracted a sizeable delegation and ended early.

Republicans drank beer and mixed drinks and ate sandwiches and spoke words of

Froehlich, Rogers, Conradt Triumph

Outagamie Incumbents All Win

Outagamie County voters have returned all three incumbent state representatives to the Assembly.

The results were not unexpected, but Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich had to turn back one of the strongest challenges in his career to win his fourth term in the First District.

Republican Ervin "Butch" Rogers easily turned back challenges in the Third and Second Districts, respectively.

Froehlich's unofficial margin over Appleton Aid. Glenn Thompson was only 1,579 votes — 6,101 to 4,522. This was far short of his 6,400 vote victory margin of two years ago, but this time he was bucking a Democratic trend and a much stronger opponent.

Rogers won his fifth term with a display of power in turning back fellow Kaukauna Aid. Russel Dix, 2,485.

Wins 3 Precincts

Thompson, a six-year veteran of the Appleton Council, carried three precincts in the city — the 11th and 13th wards and the first precinct of the 9th ward. The 13th is Thompson's home ward and he won it 734 to 561.

Froehlich's biggest margins came in the 7th and 14th wards. In the remaining precincts, his margins were steady but not spectacular.

Before the election, Thompson, admitting he faced an uphill battle, had promised that if he lost he would make another try in 1972.

Rogers piled up insurmountable margins in his home city of Kaukauna and in Kimberly, Little Chute and Combined Locks to make the race a runaway.

Dix carried three precincts in the City of Seymour and in the towns of Seymour and Osborn — but his margins were small.

Large Margins

Rogers' margin in Kaukauna was 2,810 to 939; in Kimberly, 1,350 to 250, and in Little Chute, 1,214 to 248.

Two years ago Rogers defeated Richard Helf by a 2-1 margin in a slightly heavier voter turnout. Helf carried the same three precincts that year but by bigger margins than did Dix. He also ran closer in the dities.

Conradt carried his mixed rural urban district by a just slightly less ratio than he did in 1968, but it again was a much smaller turnout. His total was 7,436 to 3,842 for Bowers.

In 1968 Conradt defeated Craig Smith 10,159 to 4,250. Bowers carried only one of the 23 precincts in the district, the Town of Deer Creek.

$325,000 Levy Asked

Clintonville City Council Gets Look at $1.8 Million Budget

CLINTONVILLE — The tax rate could increase more than $5 per $1,000 assessed valuation if the proposed budget for 1971, given its initial reading Tuesday night, is adopted without change by the City Council.

It calls for spending of $1,828,992, up $214,488 from the current year's budget. Revenues other than property taxes are expected to produce $409,971, leaving $1,419,021 to be raised by property taxes. The proposed levy is $218.966 higher than in 1970 and a tax rate of $45.70 would be needed to produce the local tax revenues. The current year's rate is $40.

The 1970 assessed valuation of the city is $30,978,430 which represents a $77,060 tax base increase over last year.

The 1971 levy for city school taxes is $757,732, an increase of $91,636; vocational school, $40,360, up $3,214; and debt retirement of Bear Creek school trust fund, $13,731, down $1,796, for a total of $811,824, an increase of $93,055.

County Taxes Up

The tax to be collected by the city for the state in the proposed 1971 budget is $8,054, up $367. County taxes for 1971 are shown at $274,000, up $15,937.

The proposed 1971 budget for city expenditures is $735,113, up $105,128.

A comparison of the proposed budget with 1970's budget shows general government at $92,306 for 1971, up $9,436; protection, persons and property, $124,810, up $8,150; welfare, $4,000, up $500; health and sanitation, $30,000, down $250; library, $29,968.28, up $4,887.72; park and recreation, $35,020, up $100; highways, $130,535, up $17,559; indebtedness $210,073.75, up $55,037.50; and unclassified, $78,400, up $9,700.

The general government boost includes $3,000 additional for committee meetings or expense, $800 additional for office expenses for the mayor, $800 more for clerical help, $600 more for law and legal, $700 more for public works department, and due to about 10 per cent increase in property and liability, including hospital and life insurance, this increased $1,900.

City Clerk Lloyd Eggleston explained the proposed figures and said they also reflect increases in salaries.

Error Reflected

The increase in protection of persons and property includes $6,000 for fire hydrant rental as the result of an increase granted the utility, according to the state's formula; there is a drop for the police department reflecting an error last year on the Wisconsin Retirement. It is shown at $8,000 for 1971 instead of $14,000. Salaries increased 7,000.

Welfare shows an increase of only $500; health and sanitation is down $250, and park and recreation, up $100.

The increase for library reflects salary increases, and $1,000 for its book account.

The biggest increase in the highways account is for new street outlay, up $18,000.

"Indebtedness has taken quite a jump which is understandable inasmuch as these last two years, we had been going on strictly a temporary borrowing basis and we came to a parting of the ways on this when we went under the $500,000 bond," Clerk Eggleston told the council.

He pointed out that the city would have to pay off $20,000 of the $500,000 corporate purpose bond and $28,937 interest on it for the major amount of the increase.

Unclassified increases are due to Wisconsin Retirement and social security for about $4,000, $3,500 increase for airport.

Receipts Down

The receipts other than property taxes anticipated for 1971 at $409,971 are down $4,478. Most of the receipts run closely to this year's figures; however, income taxes from the state were anticipated at $132,000 this year and are proposed for 1971 at $120,000. The exact amount received this year is not known.

As yet as the final payment is made Nov. 30, the clerk pointed out. As of Sept. 1, $85,507 had been received.

Mayor Frank Sinkewicz commented that the finance committee might want to look over the figures, as in his brief the observation of it, he noted there discouragement and insecurity were a number of areas in which it could be changed and that it very probably would have to be changed — otherwise group told her, "We wouldn't be there will be an increase of, here if we knew how to read."

Assembly Speaker Harold Froehlich was in a good mood Tuesday night as vote returns showed him leading his opponent, Glenn Thompson, in the race for Outagamie County's 1st Assembly District seat. Froehlich defeated Thompson, 6,101 to 4,522, but suffered a later setback when statewide returns showed the Democrats had gained control of the Assembly, meaning Froehlich soon will lose his speakership. In Shooting Case

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Supreme Court has ruled that Daniel J. Martin, a Wisconsin State Reformatory inmate convicted in Waupaca County of aggravated battery may not withdraw his plea of guilty.

The defendant moved to withdraw his plea on Dec. 26, 1968, after being convicted in February of 1968 on the charge arising out of a shooting incident in Waupaca County, Feb. 2, 1968. Judge Wendell McHenry of Waupaca County denied the plea and asked the Supreme Court to review the case.

In an opinion written by Justice Conner T. Hansen, the court affirmed Judge McHenry's decision.

Martin had requested that he be allowed to withdraw his plea on the grounds that his attorney was illegally appointed by a municipal justice lacking authority to appoint counsel and that he did not "freely, voluntarily, intelligently and understandingly enter his plea."

The defendant was originally charged with conduct regardless of human life for the shooting of a woman in a gathering of motorcycle club members at an abandoned Waupaca County cheese factory. Martin was not a member of the club, but participated in the incident that allegedly involved drinking, drugs, shooting, and attempts to have the girl perform unnatural sex acts, according to the brief.

Martin was charged for firing shots, one which missed the girl's head, and another that struck her in the shoulder.

The defendant contended that his attorney was illegally appointed by a municipal justice and that the attorney did not inform him of the maximum sentence he could receive for pleading guilty to the reduced charge.

On the basis of testimony by Martin and his attorney in the Waupaca County court, the Supreme Court ruled there is adequate evidence Martin knew the maximum sentence was five years and that his plea was voluntary.

The court agreed that the counsel was improperly appointed, but ruled that Martin was not as a result denied his constitutional right to effective counsel.

Power Outage Hits Clintonville

CLINTONVILLE — The northwest section of the city and nearby rural area were without electrical power for two hours Tuesday morning when an underground cable at the rear of the utility plant blew up, according to plant officials.

The outage started at 9:45 a.m. and the rural area had power restored just before the noon hour.

Stockbridge Speaker

Reading Should be Fun

STOCKBRIDGE — Sister Mary Bernard, reading consultant at St. Thomas More School, Appleton, discussed methods of improving and making reading more enjoyable and meaningful when she spoke at the public schools here in behalf of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act (ESEA) Title I reading program.

Sister Bernard, who worked two years for a Washington publishing company, urged parents to try to make reading a joyful experience. "Do not pressure," she cautioned. "When a child says he wants to read to you, listen to him."

Phonetic Sytle

Speaking of an experience teaching inmates of a correctional institution to read, Sister Bernard connected crime with the figures, as in his brief the observation of it, he noted there discouragement and insecurity were a number of areas in which it could be changed and that it very probably would have to be changed — otherwise group told her, "We wouldn't be there will be an increase of, here if we knew how to read."

About 80-85 per cent of the words in the English language relate to the phonetic system, the speaker said. She stressed the importance of experiences in assisting youngsters to read. She urged parents to take time to read at their own age level.

Don't Repeat

Sister Bernard stressed the importance of giving instructions once, not to repeat directions as a habit, and to train oneself to "listen." She encouraged parents to allow young children to use crayons and scissors, and to allow them to cut pictures from magazines.

She also termed the newspaper "a firm foundation" for reading. Cooperation between parent and teacher was urged, as was the importance of getting children to read simple library books on subjects of interest to them.

Mrs. Richard Volp, coordinator of the developmental reading program, explained that the speaker's appearance was an attempt to carry out suggestions to have an in-service program.

An advisory board is composed of Mrs. Math Moehn Jr., Mrs. John Ecker, Mrs. Robert Wilson, Mrs. Norbert Franz, Thomas Silp Jr., D. W. Meyers, Sister Mary Clare and reading specialist, Mrs. Donald Ortieb.

Mrs. Volp, who also is a kindergarten teacher, questioned Sister Bernard about the advisability of teaching kindergarten children to read. The consultant agreed that early training was an advantage and that many kindergarten pupils are ready to read.

Before her talk, Sister Bernard viewed the intensive reading equipment the school has acquired through the federal program. A movie concluded the program.

Railroad Crossing Gets Approval

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

MADISON — The Wisconsin Public Service Commission approved the development of a railroad grade crossing in Weyauwega to serve a new industrial park in that city.

The extension of Third Avenue, approved by the commission will cross the spur track of the Soo Line Railroad Company and serve as an entrance to the industrial park. The commission apportioned the work and costs for the crossing between the city of Weyauwega and the Soo Line.

Rotary Hears Speech On Mining Operations

CLINTONVILLE — Gilbert Steinberg showed slides and told of his mining operations in New Mexico, Monday, when he was speaker at the luncheon meeting of the Rotary Club.

Because of the terrific heat, the mine is only operated in the winter time. William Schultz was program chairman.

Defeats Calkins

Spice Wins 4th Term as Sheriff

Calvin L. Spice, who started his law enforcement career 23 years ago on the Kaukauna Police Department, Tuesday night became Outagamie County's first four-term sheriff by virtue of a 2-1 victory over Republican Philip Calkins.

Spice, 46, carried every major precinct in sweeping to a 23,210 to 10,244 vote over the 41-year-old Calkins who, before being named Shiocton police chief last March, was a salesman and a seven-year veteran of the Beloit Police Department.

Calkins found most of his support in the northern part of the county. A route 2, Black Creek, resident, he outpolled Spice in the village and town of Black Creek, and in Seymour and Shiocton and the towns of Bovina, Cicero, Ellington, Maine, Osborn and Seymour.

Calkins' biggest margin was in Black Creek where he had 249 votes to Spice's 62.

Spice, who conducted a vigorous campaign in which experience was his main selling point, won big in every Appleton ward. Spice counted 10,725 votes in Appleton, compared with 5,151 for Calkins.

In Kaukauna, Spice's home town and lifelong residence, the Democratic sheriff outpolled Calkins 3,331 to 678. Spice also registered big gains in the Town of Grand Chute and the villages of Combined Locks, Little Chute and Kimberly.

It was Spice's easiest victory. He has never lost an election. He beat former sheriff and undersheriff Donald Heimritz by only 420 votes in 1962 to become the first Democratic sheriff in Outagamie County since 1932.

Spice coasted to an easy victory over one of his former investigators, Lt. Jack Frenz, in 1964.

The two-term limit for sheriffs was still in effect in 1966 (it was repealed a year later) so Spice backed his former under-sheriff, Republican Norbert Marx for sheriff. Marx won.

In 1968, Marx, who had named Spice his undersheriff, ran against and lost to the Kaukauna Democrat.

Spice served 5½ years on the Kaukauna Police Department. He then joined the Outagamie County traffic patrol where he remained until he was elected sheriff in 1962.

Calkins gained his berth against Spice by winning over Henry Hofacker, a rural Hortonville farmer, in the September Republican primary election. Spice had no primary opposition.

James A. Hebert, an independent running unopposed for surveyor, collected 2,722 votes.

No other county officeholder — all of them are Republicans — faced opposition Tuesday.

Dominic Peeters, with 23,298 ballots, was the top county vote getter. Peeters is register of deeds. Other incumbents and their unofficial vote totals were County Clerk Arthur Hoodhain, 22,762; Treasurer Peter Berg, 22,284; Coroner Bernard Kemps, 23,235; Clerk of Circuit Court Gloria Johnson, 23,120; Dist. Atty. James Long, 23,028.

Snowmobilers Offer Services For Emergencies

BEAR CREEK — Members of the Trail-N-Track Snowmobilers unanimously agreed to make their members and machines available for any emergency efforts for rescue, fire, illness or to anyone snowbound this winter, at their meeting at the Village hall Sunday evening.

Thomas Lorge was elected president; Reuben Poppe, vice president; Ruth Tellock, secretary and Shirley Schertz, treasurer. The last president Wayne Bricco will serve on the board of directors with Eugene Jarvis and Thomas Bochard.

Marion Approves Budget of $117,900

MARION — The City Council Monday night adopted the proposed 1971 budget of $117,900 without opposition.

Anticipated income has been set at $70,700 leaving $47,200 to be raised by taxes. The tax rate for city purposes is $7.42 per $1,000 valuation as compared to $5.23 last year when the tax levy was $30,700.

Last year's total budget was $106,700.

The reason for the increase in this year's budget is because last year there was a surplus to draw on which they do not have this year. Also the sum of $1,800 for a proposed zoning ordinance has been included in the 1971 budget.

The 1971 budget includes: zoning plan for the city of Marion, $23,000. After conferring with certain personnel in the city, he will return to Madison where he will draw up a permanent plan which will be presented at a later date at a public hearing.

Mike Federman, representative of Max Anderson, based in Madison, submitted a preliminary use plan and also a preliminary

Losses Stun Froehlich

BY DON CASTONIA
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

A stunned Harold Froehlich viewed the wreckage of the former Republican-controlled State Assembly this morning in almost the same light as the football coach who wants to see the film before analyzing his team's defeat.

"I really don't have an answer," the Republican speaker of the Assembly for the last four years said.

With the Democrats assured of at least 57 seats in the Assembly — their largest margin since 1932 — the governorship and the state treasurer's office, Froehlich termed the results "nearly a landslide in view of the state's voting history."

With the proportions of the Jack Olson-David Martin defeat, Froehlich said, "There is no question that Bob Warren is the potential leader of the GOP at this point."

Show of Strength
Warren, in winning re-election as state attorney general, provided the only show of statewide Republican strength. But even he had a stiff challenge from Thomas Jacobson, relatively unknown attorney.

Froehlich was less certain about his own future in the Assembly. As outgoing speaker, it might be assumed that he would automatically take over as minority leader.

The Appleton lawmaker, sometimes known as Mr. Conservative in the Assembly, was less certain. "I can't say if I am still in a leadership position," he said. "We lost substantially enough that I would have to know who lost to determine if there will be leadership changes in the Assembly GOP."

It was apparent that a number of conservative Republicans had been defeated. Whether the conservative element, led by Froehlich, still maintains control of the party probably will not be known for another two weeks.

Decide at Caucus
The leadership caucus of the GOP is scheduled for Nov. 13 in Madison. The party's Assembly leadership posts will be decided then.

Froehlich said it was difficult to find the cause of voter defection from the GOP, but he admitted that economic conditions probably were the major factor. "There is no question the people voted their pocketbook," he said.

"I think this was an election where the people were unsettled and concerned about the economy. They voted against the ins who had not been able to calm the unrest and who had raised their taxes substantially, and they voted for the outs who said there would be no new sales taxes, no raises in property taxes and who promised to raise all the taxes from the corporations and the rich."

Froehlich said there was no doubt in his mind that unemployment and reduced working hours were major factors.

Seniors Top Honor Roll at New London

NEW LONDON — The senior class placed the most students on both the A and B honor rolls at the senior high school, with 23 on the A roll and 24 on the B roll.

The juniors had 11 on the A roll and 13 on the B, and the sophomores had 15 on the A list and 13 on the B.

Program Backfired

At the same time, he felt the Republican's law and order program may have backfired. "The Democrats took as strong a stand on law and order at the end of the campaign as we did and put the blame on us for the unrest."

He was uncertain as to how smooth sailing the Lucey-Schreiber programs would have through the legislature. "With the amount of control the Democrats have, Lucey's programs should pass handily. It will be interesting to see how many Democrats vote for the taxes to support those programs."

He said it was too early to attempt to predict how the Senate will react. The Republicans maintain a comfortable margin in the upper house.

Froehlich said separate control of the two houses would "keep both parties honest" on the potentially hot issue of reapportionment.

While there is an interim committee on reapportionment, Froehlich said separate bills probably would come out of the Senate and Assembly with a compromise solution. "It will be interesting to see how this session develops," Froehlich commented. "We will have to start to rebuild the Republican party. After yesterday there is nowhere to go but up."

Building Rate Slows Down For Winter

CHILTON — Building activity apparently is slowing down for the winter in Calumet County. Nine building permits were issued during October by chief zoning administrator Roland Tonn, for a total value of $50,800.

Permits in the Town of Harrison went to Malcolm Bodway, garage; Ronald Froemming, new home and Mrs. Gerald Smith, home addition.

In the Town of New Holstein, Ray Bennin received a permit for a mobile home; and Greg Parly for a drying room. Town of Charlestown permits went to Victor Erdmann for home remodeling and Gordon Koehler, gilo. In the Town of Brillion, Wilber Feider received a permit for a silo and Gary Stebane for a milk house.

Those receiving approved certified survey maps were Alex Goesser, Town of Harrison, two lots; Donald Scheider and Ralph Brill, Town of New Holstein, one lot each and John Sheeby, Town of Brillion, one lot. Seventeen septic tank permits were also issued by Tonn last month.

Woman's Club Hears Speech on Liberation

CLINTONVILLE — Illinois Rouds from the Wisconsin State University, Stevens Point, spoke on Woman's Liberation Monday night at the meeting of the Clintonville Junior Woman's Club.

Hostesses Monday night were Mrs. Chester Jurkovic, Mrs. Larry Brisco and Mrs. John Drown.

Kloes said his plan is for the county to belong to both COG and the Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission for 1971. Then, he said, it would be up to the two planning agencies to get together. "We would only pay dues to one planning agency in 1972," Kloes said.

DeLaHunt has expressed the desire for the two agencies to end overlapping of effort.

DeLaHunt said Mayor Gilbert Anderson, Kaukauna, chairman of COG, had indicated interest in the proposal.

COG serves the Fox Cities urban area and includes cities, villages and towns. Northeastern Wisconsin Regional Planning Commission primarily serves the rural areas of its member counties although the cost is assessed against the entire county.

Kloes said he hoped greater use could be made of the planners. "We must motivate the planners and then use them," he said. However, he said, it was the county's and member governments' own fault for not making greater use of the agencies.

Trash Becoming Greater Menace Than Air Pollution

EDITOR'S NOTE—Unless something is done soon, the experts say, the nation will be inundated with garbage. Trash is beginning to present a greater menace to the nation's health and well being than air and water pollution. One of the ways out is find a way to reuse what the housewife and the manufacturer throw away. Following is the first of three articles on the nation's trash crisis.

By BILL STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Perched on a hill overlooking Houston's Southside, a $5-million-garbage incinerator sits idle, fires dead—a symbol of America's lagging battle to remove her trash.

Hailed at its opening in 1967 as a cure for Houston's solid waste crisis, the incinerator was to consume 800 tons of refuse daily—a large part of the city's garbage.

But just five months after opening, it shut down for repairs, to air pollution control equipment. The incinerator has operated intermittently since.

Closing again last June for $250,000 in repairs that won't be completed until next year.

Not Unique
But the city's solid waste problems aren't unique. In fact, they are typical of problems plaguing hundreds of municipalities, large and small, around the country.

Houston's problems reflect a growing garbage crisis facing America, a crisis that has its roots in the lifestyle of an affluent society that seemingly knows no bounds to technological growth, and consequently, rubbish.

Ecologists warn that growing mounds of refuse have the potential for greater harm to the environment than air and water pollution.

Usually the lowest paid of a municipal work force, they are plagued with high accident, sickness, absenteeism and turnover rates.

From New York to Atlanta to Memphis to Albuquerque, refuse collectors' strikes became administrators' nightmares.

Disposal problems are just as acute. The BSWM estimates 94 per cent of all land disposal methods are unsatisfactory in terms of health, efficiency or protection of natural resources.

The bureau estimates, 75 per cent of all municipal incinerators either add to air pollution! The most unfortunate aspect of the solid waste problem, officials estimate that the 11 million tons of paper recycled last year saved 200 million trees.

In a BSWM-sponsored study, a National Academies of Sciences and Engineering committee concluded:

"Historically, solid waste management has been characterized by minimum attention, minimum funding and minimum application of technology."

Much of the problem of solid waste management derives from the continued reluctance of those concerned to come to grips with it and apply existing technology, systems and organizational know-how to its solution.

The problem, says Houston Mayor Louie Welch is people. "The attitude of the public in refuse were incinerated, the would be worth at least 650 million a year. Recycling raw material would yield considerably more.

Some recycling is under way.

There are more potential uses for waste container glass than there is glass available from reuse now or in the predictable future," Richard Cheney, a Glass Manufacturers Institute official, said.

"We can no longer afford the Experts say emphasis must be placed on efficient collection and disposal methods that creatively recycle reusable refuse and efficiently dispose of that which has no further value."

President Nixon told Congress in August 1969 that indiscriminate waste of our natural resources, neither should we accept as inevitable the mounting costs of waste removal.

"We must move increasingly toward closed systems that recycle what now are considered wastes back into useful and productive purposes."
